D., General Superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, has issued an appeal to the Methodist preachers and people to support the movement to end war and to back up the League of Nations, and he calls on the preachers to make "world peace" their topic on Sunday next.

The "no more war" demonstration is planned for Saturday next, July 28. By order of the Methodist General Conference special committee, the topic of "world peace" is suggested for all Methodist pulpits for Sunday, July 29.

TWENTY-SIX INSANE CONVICTS AT LARGE

Fifteen Were Recaptured at Chester, Illinois

One Convict Killed When Men Making Escape

Chester, Ills., July 23.—Fifteen of forty-one insane convicts who escaped from the Illinois State Hospital for the Criminal Insane here were recaptured this morning.

During the disorder attending the escape one of the convicts was slain, two guards were stabbed seriously and other guards and officials were badly beaten. Many of those who escaped had been committed to the institution on their pleas of insanity when charged with murders in various parts of the state.

After the escape numerous posses, including fifty guards of the Southern Illinois Penitentiary, police officers and citizens were soon scouring a thick wooded section north of Chester, where most of the fugitives hid, and the recaptures resulted.

The delivery occurred when 227 convicts, who were in the exercise yard, a steel wire stockade, sensed a moment when their guards were relaxing and pounced upon them. Ten guards, who were with the men in the inclosure, were overpowered.

After overpowering the guards, the convicts used a wooden bench as a battering ram and hammered a hole through the stockade, through which the men poured and fled in all directions.

The Postmaster-General informed a committee of the Empire Press Union to-day that he hoped an agreement with the Marconi Company would be concluded and signed within a month and that the Government expected to have a high-power station erected at Rugby in little more than a year hence. The charges for wireless messages, he said, would be less than the cable rates.

STRIKERS VOTE TO RESUME WORK

Men in South Cape Breton to Start To-morrow

Head of Steel Corporation Visits Area

Sydney, N.S., July 23.—The coal miners of South Cape Breton decided at a mass meeting at Glace Bay Saturday night to return to work Tuesday. The North Cape Breton men will undoubtedly follow suit, and the strike of the miners of District 26 against the presence of troops in the district will be over.

The resolution passed by the miners declared that whereas the majority of the men were in favor of returning to work, it was considered useless under the circumstances to continue the fight. It was announced that the resolution had the endorsation of the MacLachlan-Livingstone executive of District 26, recently deposed by order of International President Lewis.

Injunction

An injunction was served Saturday night on most of the MacLachlan-Livingstone officers restraining them from any action in any official capacity in the district. J. B. MacLachlan, former secretary, gave a written undertaking that the district offices would be handed over to Provisional President Barrett on Tuesday.

Speaking to the Canadian Press last night, Mr. MacLachlan said:

"I am glad the miners are going back to work in a body and in the United Mine Workers. There will be no dual organization in this district. We will all remain in the U.M.W.A."

Upwards of 2,000 steel workers, formerly at work in the plant of the British Empire Steel Corporation, are still on strike, but it is thought they will shortly return to work.

Halifax, July 23.—R. M. Wolvin, president of the British Empire Steel Corporation, passed through Halifax en route to Cape Breton. He refused to make any statement on the strike situation.

Mr. Wolvin was accompanied by Sir Newton Moore, of London, and G. L. Stone, of Boston, both directors of the corporation. They are making an investigation tour of the company's property.

Ottawa, July 23.—(Canadian Press)—Exports of paper manufactured in Canada during the month of June reached a total value of $7,859,684, according to an announcement made by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics to-day. Compared with the figure for June, 1922, an advance of over $1,000,000 is shown.

In the three months ending with June, total exports of Canadian paper, wood pulp and pulpwood were valued at $36,849,059, as compared with $27,579,851, in the corresponding three months of 1922.

TO FACE SECOND TRIAL IN MONTREAL; REV. A. DELORME

DELORME JURORS UNABLE TO AGREE

Relieved of Duties After Deliberating From Saturday Till This Afternoon

Sent Back Twice By Judge; Trial Cost $60,000

Montreal, July 23.—Rev. Adelard Delorme, charged with the murder of his half-brother, Raoul Delorme, will have to submit to a second trial at the next session of the Court of King's Bench.

The jurors, after having been sent back twice by the Chief Justice, Sir Francois Lemieux, to deliberate, returned for the third time this afternoon with the same answer, namely, that they were unable to come to an agreement and there was no prospect of an agreement.

The jury was discharged.

Application made for bail on behalf of the prisoner was refused by the judge.

Thus, after a trial that lasted twenty-eight days, cost the province alone over $60,000 and is unparalleled in the criminal annals of Quebec alike for its dramatic features and the widespread public interest it has aroused, the mystery of Raoul Delorme's murder on the night of January 6, 1922, still remains unsolved.

Awaits New Trial.

The prisoner returns to his cell at Bordeaux Jail, there to await his second trial. The failure of the jury to agree on a verdict leaves justice still undone, and the whole intricate and expensive machinery of criminal jurisdiction and procedure will have to be set in motion in the case again.

Not Unexpected.

It can not be said that the result was unexpected, particularly after the jury's attitude on Saturday night. There were some who hoped that deliberation over the week-end would bring about an agreement, but when they returned to court this morning with the court statement that they could not agree, there was a general impression created that they never would agree. That impression was borne out when they came into court for the third time and once again emphasized their inability to reach a verdict.

Delorme obviously was not surprised, nor did he show any signs of disappointment or relief. He took the decision, which means more weary months of imprisonment for him, with stony unconcern.

Long Deliberations.

The jury retired at about 5.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon and its effort to reach a verdict began. When it was reported Saturday night that the jurors had failed, after some hours, to find agreement, the judge asked them to retire again and make another effort. He said that if a verdict should be reached on Sunday the court would sit and receive it.

To-day's Events.

When court re-opened this morning the jury reported that no agreement had yet been reached. Again the judge sent the jury back and adjourned the court until two o'clock this afternoon.

The judge, before asking the jurors to make another attempt to reach an agreement, reminded them that if no definite verdict was reached, the case would have to be heard again at the next session of the Court of King's Bench. This would mean great ad-

IRISH PREPARE FOR AN ELECTION

Valera Asks Supporters in U. S. to Subscribe Funds

Polling Probably Will Be Early in September

Dublin, July 23.—Eamonn de Valera, in a message to the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, appealing for election funds, says the people of Ireland are overwhelmingly republican at heart, and that the Anglo-Irish Treaty was "forced on them by threats of war from Great Britain."

De Valera says about $100,000 will be needed.

It is expected the Dail will be dissolved at the end of this week, and that a general election will be held the first week in September. The election campaigning already has begun. It is stated that De Valera's followers, although contesting a number of seats, will generally adopt a policy of abstention, but, according to the statement issued by De Valera, he seems to see an active fight.

Would Refuse Co-Operation.

He says that if the election is unfettered and the republicans gain a majority, their policy will be to govern the country on Sinn Fein lines as in 1919, refusing to co-operate with Great Britain in any way until Great Britain is ready to make an arrangement consistent with the independence and unity of Ireland as a single state.

On the other hand, if the present "suppression" continues and republicans are precluded from appearing before the electors and thus elect only a minority, they will refuse to take an oath of allegiance to the British King and will meet and act together as a separate body, working along Sinn Fein lines "for the honor and welfare of our country and her advancement among nations."

Mortimer Nelson, a prominent lawyer of Outlook, Sask., was drowned in the South Saskatchewan River at 11.30 Sunday night. The girl could not swim and got beyond her depth. Four other men went to the rescue and brought the half-drowned girl to shore. Efforts to rescue Nelson were unavailing.

GORGE TAKES ANOTHER LIFE

Vernon Larkin Sucked Down in Whirlpool

C. D. Chungranes Plunges Fully Clothed to Rescue

When help was within four yards, as he swirled in the waters of the Gorge west of the bridge last night Vernon Larkin, of 715 Broughton Street, aged 16, threw up his hands and went down for the third time. The boy, with a companion, Charles Day had paddled a canoe to the foot of the landing at the Gorge Bridge about 10 p. m. A strong tide was running, rapidly filling up the basin above the bridge.

The canoe party held on to the side of the bridge for a while, apparently to pull the craft through the current, when it swung and capsized. The boy was carried along with the canoe. His companion caught hold of the railings at the bridge side, and clung on there until rescued.

Caught in Whirlpool.

The boy held on to the upturned canoe, and was pulled under when the craft and its clinging figure was sucked under the whirlpool at the bridge entrance. When the canoe came to the surface Larkin had been thrown clear of that frail support and was struggling alone in the water. At this moment C. D. Chungranes, 655 Toronto Street, arrived at the Gorge in time to hear the shouts of those on the bridge, saw the figure in the water, and dived in to his rescue fully clothed.

J. J. McNeil, 2970 Albina Street, followed suit.

A strong swimmer and noted athlete, Chungranes rapidly gained on the place where the boy was in difficulties. Twice did Larkin go under before Chungranes could approach the scene. Chungranes reached within four yards of Larkin when he went under for the last time. Mr. Chungranes was joined by other swimmers who dived for the body without ceasing for some time, while boats and canoes put off to aid in the search. Their efforts were without avail.

Police Search Scene.

Late last night and again at daylight this morning the Provincial, Esquimalt and Saanich police drew grappling irons over the bottom in a vain effort to locate the body. The police who responded to the call are still engaged upon the scene of the drowning.

CHURCH UNION PROGRESS REPORTED

President of Wesleyan Conference Preaches in Bristol Cathedral

Bristol, July 23 (Canadian Press cable)—An eloquent sign of the progress of the church union movement was witnessed here last evening when Bishop Nickson, with the dean and a crowded congregation, listened to a sermon by the nonconformist minister, Rev. Ferrir Hulme, president of the Wesleyan Conference, which is meeting in this city, attended by representatives from Australia, South Africa, Canada and other countries.

TREMORS SHAKE SLEEPING CITIZENS

Southern California Rocked By Earthquake

Good Record on Seismograph Here

Los Angeles, July 23.—Southern California was jarred late last night and early this morning by a series of earthquake shocks, some of sufficient violence to shatter plate glass windows and send tons of stone and brick tumbling from buildings.

Roofs Collapse.

The tremors were heaviest in San Bernardino and Redlands, milder shocks being felt between 11.28 p. m. and 1 a. m. elsewhere from San Diego on the south to Santa Barbara on the north, and as far east as the Arizona state line. Three men lying in their beds in San Bernardino were severely injured by falling debris. Two lodgers in a rooming house were buried under a roof which collapsed. Rocks weighing more than 200 pounds apiece, plunging from the roof of a higher building, crashed into the room of George R. Fisher, shattering the bed in which he slept. Fisher, however, was hit by only a comparatively small missile, which crushed his shoulders and fractured one of his hands. Dozens of plate glass windows were broken in Redlands and several buildings suffered minor damage.

Typical of the pranks reported from all points were those of a sharp tremor in Los Angeles. Here the brief shock stopped clocks, set off burglar alarms, rattled and broke dishes and cracked plaster.

Wells Gush Out.

Artesian wells on the Warren ranch south of San Bernardino, which had not flowed for years, gushed forth immediately after the quake. Trees were reported to have been toppled over at Strawberry Flat. The Hill Creek Road into Bear Valley was blocked by fallen rock and dirt.

Several hundred patients in the Loma Linda Sanitarium, near San Bernardino, were alarmed when plaster crashed from the walls and chemical containers in the laboratory burst with loud reports. The patients were quieted, an dan examination of all disclosed that none had been hurt.

In some places, power and telephone lines were disrupted for a time. Other cities and towns which report shocks and slight damage were San Diego, Pasadena, Long Beach, Santa Ana, Mojave, Arrowhead Springs, Riviera, El Centro, Santa Monica, Santa Barbara, Glendale, Eagle Rock, Riverside, Monrovia, Pomona, Anaheim, San Jacinto, Hemet and Barstow.

Reports had it that tremors had been felt in the northwestern part of Arizona, but there has been no confirmation this morning, as telegraph and telephone service into that district failed.

Is Experienced Here

Two earthquakes of long duration but varying intensity were recorded at Gonzales Heights Observatory yesterday. The more severe commenced at 6 hrs. 25 mins. 20 secs. a.m. and the record continued for three hours. The distance was approximately 2,700 miles, probably in the region of Kamchatka. The second record was that of an earthquake of more moderate intensity and occurring at a distance of 1,020 miles, probably in Southern California. It commenced at 11.34 p.m. on Sunday and continued for two hours, the maximum wave being recorded at 11 hours. 38 mins. 40 secs.

Washington, July 23.—An earthquake of severe intensity and of two hours' duration estimated to have occurred 4,900 miles from Washington, was recorded Sunday on the Georgetown University seism-graph. The disturbance continued from 9.29 to 11.30 a. m.

FRENCH AND BELGIAN REPLY TO BE SENT TO BRITAIN THIS WEEK

Reparations Proposals Now Being Studied by Premier Poincare — Paris and Brussels Leaders Are Exchanging Views

Paris, July 23.—Premier Poincare, who read the British reparations documents after they were received from London late Saturday night, began a serious study to-day of the proposed reply to Germany.

An exchange of views between Paris and Brussels is going on meanwhile. The reply to London probably will be made before the end of the week.

The only indication of the trend of negotiations is the easier feeling in evidence around the Foreign Office.

Brussels, July 23.—After the British note on reparations had been received here it was immediately translated and laid before Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Jaspar. Both Ministers studied it thoroughly and drew up points to constitute a basis for discussion at a Cabinet meeting.

The feeling in official quarters can be described as still optimistic.

If the British view, as expressed in the note, were regarded as unchangeable and not open to modification after due discussion, it is believed that optimistic feeling would not exist, as some of the points in the document are not comprehensible to the Belgian mind.

It is thought the diplomatic conversations, which now are entering upon a period of great activity, will be aided by developments in the situation in Germany which are considered to be evolving rapidly in a direction favorable to the Franco-Belgian policy. No immediate direct conversations between the French and Belgian Ministers are contemplated at present, but the discussion will be continued through diplomatic channels.

Speech by Poincare.

Villers Cotterets, France, July 23.—Premier Poincare spoke here Sunday at a ceremony at the unveiling of a monument to the heroes who fell in the Great War. He made no allusion to the British note concerning reparations. M. Poincare began his address with a dramatic outline of the French counter-offensive in the Summer of 1918 and then replied to the recent speech of David Lloyd George, former British Premier. His speech dealt with the "German staff's monstrous economic programme of annihilation for France, drawn up in 1916 by specialists, of which we have authentic copies."

To place France and Germany on the same plane as Mr. Lloyd George did was "unique to us," M. Poincare declared. When Germany rebuilt her mercantile fleet, developed her railroads and dug new canals, was she repairing damages or undertaking improvements, was she paying for the improvements from available resources or to the detriment of payment of her debt to the Allies? the Premier asked. All this might be "amusing, as Mr. Lloyd George said he found it, but for France it was sad—even unbearable."

Unity Urged.

Great Britain, Belgium, Italy and France, said M. Poincare, must unite closely and not be led astray by the false illusion of an impoverished and forever powerless Germany.

M. Poincare concluded by asking if a visit to the Aisne region, to be followed by a trip through the Ruhr, would not be sufficient to provide all the Allied Governments with elements of instructive comparison and grounds for an equitable decision.

"Let us hope," he declared, "that none of our friends will reject this short investigation, which involves no financial surveys or expert international inquiries."

CANADA MAY ACQUIRE SECOND LONDON BUILDING

London, July 23. — (Canadian Press)—The News of the World says £225,000 is being paid by the Canadian Government for the crown lease, which has thirty-eight years to run, on the premises in Trafalgar Square which have been acquired to house the Canadian official staff in London.

The Government is stated also to be negotiating with the crown for freehold.

The yearly ground rent is £2,000.

According to this newspaper, the Canadian Government will probably acquire the adjacent premises, occupied by the Royal College of Physicians.

Stockholm, July 23.—Montreal entered application for the next world Baptist Congress at to-day's session of the Baptist World Alliance. Canadian representatives here will urge the claims of the Dominion's commercial metropolis.

The Alliance to-day offered congratulations to King Gustav on the fact that during his reign full recognition of religious liberty had been granted in Sweden.

Speakers from every section of Europe brought messages on the progress of Baptist work since the close of the war. Dr. John Clifford, of London, a leading English nonconformist and deputy president of the Alliance for the Eastern Hemisphere, who on account of his age is unable to attend the present congress, sent a message urging the Alliance to rededicate itself to the proclamation of the principles of the Bible as the only hope of unsettled Europe and the whole world.

FRENCH-GERMAN MUSICAL ARMISTICE

Paris, July 23.—France and Germany have signed a musical armistice.

The Germans began boycotting French music when the French entered the Ruhr. The French syndicate of music dealers retaliated with a ban on Germans who heretofore printed music sold in France. Neither side would permit pleasure or patriotism to interfere with business, however, so the blockade was called off and business is now going on as usual.

DELORME JURORS UNABLE TO AGREE

ditional expense. He said the case already had cost the people $60,000.

When the jury had announced for the second time after forty-two hours' deliberation, that it could not reach an agreement, Sir Francois Lemieux said:

"Gentlemen of the jury: The court has still hope that you will come to an agreement and is not convinced that you will not agree. In any case, in order that public opinion shall not make bitter repreaches against you for not having come to an agreement, the court will adjourn again until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Paid by Taxpayers.

"The consequence of your disagreement will be that the prisoner will have to go back to prison to face this trial again at a later time. The case must start again at great expense to him and as you know at great public cost. The case has cost $60,000 already, which must be paid by the taxpayers, and this expense will continue if you do not agree.

"Therefore, I beg of you between now and 2 o'clock to lay your hands on your consciences once more and try to come to an agreement."

The jurymen looked very tired, but determined. Some of the jurors seemed not to have slept for many hours.

Judge's Charge.

In his summing up of the evidence of the trial before the jury retired at 5.25 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the judge laid stress upon the questions: By whom was Raoul Delorme killed? In what manner was he killed?

These were questions necessarily left to the jury, but he pointed out that the victim was killed by six bullets, of which three had been extracted from his body. Were those three bullets fired by the Bayard pistol bought by the accused a few days previous to the murder? Perhaps that was the dominating question of the case.

The judge pointed out that the accused had told three lies—one as to where he got the Bayard revolver, one as to having shot at a dog while on a trip to the United States, and one as to disclaiming any knowledge of the whereabouts of Raoul's will. Was it reasonable to suppose that he told all these lies to the police for no reason?

Motive.

As to the motive, the judge said the crown claimed the murder was done for Raoul's money. "You see people killing their neighbors for $200, and would not many a man have killed for $150,000, especially if he were in financial difficulties? You will judge," he said.

Handwriting.

On the question of the handwriting on the package containing the watch Raoul was wearing on the night of his death, which was returned through the mails to Chief Lorraine, the judge said:

"Is it not somewhat surprising that out of five experts, two swear that the handwriting was that of the accused and that of the others the two most confident said that it appeared to be the writing of the accused, and the other that there was much resemblance between them?

Blood Tests.

"Then there is the presence of blood in the car which the accused first denied and latter attempted to explain. The defence proved by five witnesses that on three occasions blood had been shed on the cushions. Had we known the defence was going to produce this explanation, three days of valuable time need not have been lost while crown doctors gave evidence on blood tests."

All Equal Before Law.

"I understand, gentlemen, with your profound respect for all that portends to the Christian Catholic Church, your horror to have before you a priest accused of a vile, hideous crime.

"What a fall! To leave the altar where the accused had made the holy sacrifice, to leave the confessional, where he gave pardon of their sins to unhappy souls, then to be stranded at the bar of accusation, at which figure all the sweepings-up of justice, the abandoned creatures of the world, the malefactors—what a hopeless fall!

"My friends, before the law, every one is equal. The King himself flinches before the law. It would be a travesty of justice if, on account of a priestly character, an accused man were given other treatment than any other accused man."

Fair Trial.

If the accused were guilty, he could understand their fears and their disquietude. These sentiments denoted to the jury the special and legitimate respect which was due to the clergy. But, he pointed out, the Church of Christ was in a perilous position here if it could not furnish in a district like Montreal jurors sufficiently clear-minded, conscientious and faithful to the discharge of their duty to convict the accused if, though he was a priest, they believed he was guilty.

He concluded:

"I hope the Angel of Divine Justice will float over the room in which you hold your deliberations and will enable you in your hearts to render your verdict according to your hearts and consciences and in conformity with the evidence put before you.

"And may God be with you and help you."

RUMORS OF FAULTY ROADS GROUNDLESS

Officials Have Gained First Hand Information About Kelso-Toledo Detour

Authorities in the Pacific Coast States and in British Columbia, are doing all in their power to counteract reports which have been circulated regarding the poor condition of the road, a detour, between Kelso and Toledo. This report is utterly groundless and untrue, for George I. Warren, with representatives of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce lately drove over it, at an average speed of over 25 miles per hour, and found no difficulty on the route, and others interested in the situation also have made a thorough inspection of the highway.

Herbert Cuthbert, manager of the Publicity Department of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, has sent a circular letter to places of importance where information can best be delivered to the many tourists going between Canada and the United States, to the effect that the rumors of bad roads on the other side of the line are false.

It is expected that the efforts of officials on both sides of the line will be effectual in crushing any urther rumors of the sort which have been circulated, for they have proved most injurious to tourist traffic lately. It is suggested that the Seattle and Portland tourist war jealousies have had something to do with this misunderstanding, but as yet there has been nothing proved either way.

TRIBUTE TO CANADIANS

Paris, July 23.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)—Apropos of the visit to France of the delegation of Canadian schoolmasters and schoolmistresses and the recent ratification by the French Chamber of Deputies of the agreement conceding Vimy Ridge to Canada, The Paris Temps publishes a leadeer headed, "Entente Cordiale," paying tribute to Canadian heroism in the war which, says the paper, is one of the finest pages in the history of Great Britain and France. From the outset of the war Canadians of British and French origin united in a solidarity eloquently expressed in the formula, "Two Flags, One Heart," says The Temps, which also recalls the speech o fthe Canadian Prime Minister calling Canadians to arms.

"The speech had an immediate effect," says The Temps. "Over there promise and fluflilment are one and the same thing, and the first Canadian contingent embarked for Europe."

The Temps concludes:

"Such minutes are decisive in the life of peoples. Canada's example is a living lesson for two great nations united in war by the glorious brotherhood of arms, and the memory of those fallen on the battlefield under the British and the French flags ought to be continued for the tasks of peace."

The appreciative audience of members who thronged the auditorium of the Grand Army of United Veterans on Saturday evening carried with them, at the close of the entertainment, the memory of one of the most pleasant meetings held under the present management. The excellent programme presented included well rendered numbers by the club orchestra, and many well sung songs by volunteers who responded to the invitation of the chair, which was ably filled by Comrade Pearson. A most successful evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

$4,000 BUYS A GYPSY WIFE!

There's money in wives, if you're a gypsy. Look at Ruby Miller, twenty-year-old gypsy. Newark police say she has been married three times, each time sold on the marriage block. This, they say, is the connubial bookkeeping:

Husband No. 1 paid $500 for her.

Husband No. 2 bought her for $2,000.

Husband No. 3 got her for $4,000.

But she doesn't want to be sold again, she says. She wants to go back to her father in St. Louis and take her seventeen-months-old baby, Peter, with her.

Ruby left her tribe, which was camped in Woodbridge township, near Rahway, and sought the aid of Newark police.

She said she left her husband's camp because she could not tell fortunes.

Then came Sergeant Welsh, of the Woodbridge police, with a warrant charging larceny of $630 from her uncle. She denied she had taken anything except enough clothing for herself and her baby.

Then Ruby and her husband talked it over, and Newark police say they will probably kiss and make up—and there won't be another high-priced marriage.

Workers' Party of Canada, has been released on $2,000 bail on a charge of uttering sedition at a recent strike meeting at Sydney Mines.

Loss of $1,000,000

The loss in wages to the coal miners and steel workers of Cape Breton since the steel strike began is estimated at more than $1,000,000. About 300,000 tons of coal would ordinarily have been mined during the period of the strike.

A great change came over the Cape Breton strike situation over the week-end. On Friday bitter dissension was evident on all sides and feeling was running higher than at any previous time since the inauguration of the strike. A split in the ranks of the miners of District 26 and a breaking away in part from the U.M.W.A. organization appeared to be inevitable. Now solidarity has returned.

It was made clear Saturday that the revocation of the charter of the district did not cancel a single miner's card in the international organization. The effect of the cancellation had been merely to take the miners from under the jurisdiction of the district and to place them under the authority of international headquarters.

It is thought likely that the deposed executive and their followers will confine their opposition to Provisional President Barrett to legitimate international politics.

Coming together at the corner of Bay and Government Streets at 11 p.m. yesterday cars driven by E. Lister, 3016 Donald Street, and H. L. Sangster, 742 Yates Street, sustained damages. Both cars carried passengers.

By an order of Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court to-day a doggie offender received the death sentence. Royden Blakemore, charged with being the owner of a vicious dog, which had bitten William Thomas Abbott, told the cour that the dog was tractable and the playmate of children. On this occasion it had bitten the accused when frightened by his bicycle, which was being ridden on the sidewalk. The dog had bitten a man and must die, ruled the court, permitting the owner the option of having its destruction caused by the city poundkeeper or the city police. The accused selected the city poundkeeper.

WHITE LUNCH EMPLOYEES PICNIC

Have Pleasant Time at Croft Acres, Lake Hill

About 100 employees, with their friends, of the three White Lunch stores of the city journeyed out to Fred Barnes' country place, Croft Acres, Lakehill, yesterday afternoon for their annual picnic. The merry throng enjoyed themselves to the utmost, and by the time that the last rays of the sun had sunk below the hills everybody agreed that the picnic had been a nimmense success.

A large and varied sports programme had been arranged and was run off in the most excellent manner. W. J. Lynn acted as starter while N. W. Steer was judge. Many of the races caused particular merriment among the interested spectators, especially the tube race in which the ladies had to roll along the ground automobile tubes. The Yates Street store tug-of-war team once again demonstrated their right as tug-of-war champions, winning the event yesterday with ease.

After lunch there was a big marshmellow feed, the marshmellows being furnished for the affair by the Craven jam factory. There was then an ice cream feed on material supplied by the Royal Dairy. Mr. Schmeelk supplied the sandwiches for the whole picnic party.

Another feature of the day's programme was the community singing which was led by Mr. W. Marshall, the original leader, Ernir Impett hurting his foot in the broad jump and having to leave early. Mrs. Hoffman also rendered several vocal selections. Mr. Morton Charles Moir was the speaker of the day.

During the day Fred Barnes, at whose place the picnic was held, quenched the thirsty picnickers with delicious loganberry wine, made from the berries that are grown on his farm.

The prize list was as follows:

100 yards open—W. J. Lynn.

100 yards for White Lunch men—W. J. Lynn.

MOTOR TIRE WAR LOOMS IN ENGLAND

London, July 23.—The demand of British manufacturers to have a duty imposed on foreign motor tires, just the same as applies against the cars themselves, will be one certain result of the tire war now raging here, to the great delight of motorists. A cut of 10 per cent. on prices ruling during the last several months was made by a French company and brought a quick reaction from British firms, almost all of which are reducing prices to meet the foreign invasion.

The director of one of the leading companies here claims the price war is really due to the depreciation of exchange, which gives an advantage to Continental competitors and enabled them to cut rates. Arguments in favor of a duty on foreign tires, however, would be more convincing if the 33 1-3 per cent. import duty on cars had produced the expected results, but it has not.

The heavy duty does not prevent the largest foreign importation known and has been followed by a reduced exporting of products from British factories. In tires, as in cars, the heaviest competition comes from the United States.

STATEMENT BY OTTAWA ON G. T. P. CALLED EVASIVE

London, July 23.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The London Sunday Observer's financial editor characterized the reply of the Canadian Government to the representations of Grand Trunk Pacific four per cent. debenture stockholders for compensation as an elusive document. He said it did not give any satisfactory explanation of how the Canadian Government could assume entire responsibility for the guaranteed stock of the Grand Trunk while entirely ignoring the claims of the four per cent. debenture holders of the Grand Trunk Pacific for the interest which was guaranteed by the Grand Trunk, thus making it a charge prior to the Grand Trunk four per cent. guaranteed issue.

"Perhaps the real explanation is that the voting power of the guaranteed stockholders was required to enable the Government to complete its scheme for acquiring the railways, it being assumed that the Grand Trunk Pacific debenture stockholders, having no voting power, could be disregarded," he wrote.

"To argue that the line was insolvent and that the Canadian Government made huge losses in operating the National Railways is quite beside the point," continued the writer. "If the Grand Trunk Railway was worth taking over at all, it was worth something. The actual and potential value of the railway was recognized. . . . . Evidently the Canadian Government does not realize what is due in common equity to those who found the large sums of money for the building of their railway, which, in the future, must become of great value."

RUSSIANS SAY THEY WILL HAVE WHEAT TO EXPORT

Moscow, July 23.—The coming harvest, according to official figures based on information obtained from 7,000 rural communities, is expected to yield more than 3,000,000,000 poods (a pood is approximately 36 pounds), which is 800,000,000 poods more than the 1922 harvest. The total crop area is 60,000,000 dessiatins (a dessiatin is 2.70 acres), compared with 82,000,000 dessiatins sown in 1916.

The surplus over the country's needs is estimated at 500,000,000 poods, of which more than 200,000,000 poods are destined for export. The total agricultural production for 1923 is valued at 4,500,000,000 gold rubles, as against 6,500,000,000 in the years before the war.

FULL RELIGIOUS LIBERTY IS IDEAL

Baptist World Alliance Hears Address By Dr. Mullins, Louisville, Ky.

Statement on Industrial Relations at Great Stockholm Meeting

Stockholm, July 23.—Baptists of the world not only seek absolute religious liberty for themselves, but an equal right for all other believers and non-believers to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience or refuse to worship God at all, Dr. E. Y. Mullins, of Louisville, Ky., president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and of the Southern Baptist Convention, told the Baptist World Alliance here to-day in an address on "The Baptist Conception of Religious Liberty." Baptists were instrumental in securing guarantees for full religious liberty in the United States Constitution and Baptists have flourished there as nowhere else on the globe, and they are now lending their influence in an effort to induce Governments, both civil and ecclesiastical, to permit the largest possible liberty on the part of all individuals in their approach to God, the speaker said.

Man.

"Religious liberty rests upon man's original creation in the image of God," Dr. Mullins said, "and man as a person created in God's image, free and spiritual, competent to deal directly with God, with an upward look, an endless discontent with the finite and temporal, a passionate yearning for the infinite and eternal; man, endowed with a conscience ringing in the soul like an alarm bell against wrong doing; man, with a will of his own which he can misuse and bring on moral ruin, but which he can surrender to God; man, with an intellect hungering for infinite truth and eternally discontented; man, with a heart which no earthly object can satisfy; man, self-willed and sinful and then penitent and believing, redeemed by the power of Jesus Christ, Redeemer and Lord; man, recreated in the divine image, with the witness of the spirit in his soul, telling him of his eternal destiny; man, as a child of God seeking to walk worthily of his calling, and heir of all the ages—this is the being and these the endowments which demand that great boon which we call religious liberty."

What Liberty Means.

Declaring that religious liberty excludes certain things and implies certain other things, Dr. Mullins said that it excluded all state authority in religion, the principle of toleration in religion, as where the state puts its power and prestige behind one form of religion and merely tolerates others; the right of the state to impose taxes for the support of one form of religion against the conscience of the people; the imposition of religious creeds by ecclesiastical authority, centralized ecclesiastical government, priestly mediators and the sacramental power of salvation, and infant baptism; while among the things which religious liberty implies the speaker mentioned the right of direct access to God on the part of every individual, the right to search for truth in religion, the right of free utterance and propagation of the truth, the right of equal privilege in the church for all believers, the right of free association and organization for religious purposes, and the right of men to demand of Governments under which they live protection in the free exercise of their religion.

Duties.

Setting forth some of the duties which are imposed by religious liberty, Dr. Mullins enumerated that of searching for and discovering the truth, that of sacrifice for the truth, that of loyalty to the state, and that highest of all duties, loyalty to Jesus Christ. "Not license, self-will or human will, but God's will as revealed in Jesus Christ is the goal of history and of religious liberty," the speaker said. "There is no danger in this religious liberty centred and anchored in Jesus Christ."

Industrial Relations.

In a declaration presented to the Alliance to-day the Baptists of the world were called upon to strive for industrial freedom with the same earnestness as they have striven for political and religious liberty in the past. Co-operation rather than competition between capital and labor was proposed as one means to this end, along with a share for the laborer in the profits, direction and control of industry.

The statement upon industrial relations, offered by Dr. J. C. Carlisle, of Folkestone, England, one of the leading Baptists of the world, said in part:

"Man is overwhelmed by the weight and wonder of the new knowledge of the world. Inventive genius has risen to the occasion within the last century. Its rise deserves to displace from our school books the dates of wars and the names of warriors. Palissy, the potter, Davy and Edison with their lamps, Simpson with his chloroform, Ford with his car, and Marconi with his waves have redeemed life from its sordid limitations. Industrialism has a beneficent and beautiful ministry. The breakfast table has a romance of growth, manufacture and travel.

Machine Power.

"Two centuries ago England started mass production by machine power, but it led to new exhibitions of capitalistic greed and workmen's laziness. Monotony took the romance from toil. All these vices were not unknown in church members, in sweated clergy, in ecclesiastical contracts. Must not Christians try to understand and remedy?

"Baptists advocate peace, not revolution. We are the pioneers of freedom and must secure it industrically as well as religiously and politically. Freeing the slave in the British Empire was but a first instalment. To new problems we must apply Christ's basic principles: The supreme value of the individual soul, the obligation of service to others, the stewardship of life. A new conscience is being quickened and Britain's tax bill for social service was $1,500,000,000 last year.

Aims.

"Here are some reasonable aims for the near future: Co-operation in place of competition and a share for labor in the direction and control as well as the profits of industry. But Socialism proposes state ownership and control of both production with the means and distribution of production. What motive force will replace personal advantage? May a citizen disliking the work assigned to him leave the country? Marx thought of big capitalists and wage slaves; he did not foresee mammoth companies, including thousands of small capitalists; his doctrines do not apply to the systems of to-day. We have to evolve doctrines embodying Christ's spirit—the personality of the worker, the fellowship of owner and workers, good will among all. Let us try to express our creed in the character of our social relations."

for
FORDS

More and more
Ford owners realize this fact

Ford economy and performance depend chiefly upon the right lubricant

THE Ford engine, owing to its peculiar design, will operate most efficiently and economically on a light, medium bodied oil of the highest quality.

If your Ford runs "hot"—look to your lubricating oil. It may be of the wrong body for free distribution to friction surfaces.

If carbon "knocks" develop—look to your lubricating oil. Too heavy an oil usually has great carbon forming tendencies in the Ford engine.

If your Ford is "hard starting" in cold weather—look to your lubricating oil. It may not have the proper fluidity in cold temperatures.

Imperial Polarine Light Medium Oil exactly meets the lubricating requirements of the Ford engine. This oil absorbs and dissipates heat. It deposits little carbon. It remains free flowing in cold weather.

For best Ford results use Imperial Polarine Light Medium Oil and change your oil at least every 750 miles. (The latter precaution is an aid in preventing "chattering" transmission bands).

Lubrication recommendations for other than Ford cars are contained in our complete Chart on display at your dealer's; also in our booklet "Automotive Lubrication," an interesting, non-technical manual. If you have not received your copy write to 56 Church Street, Toronto.

GLADIATORS?

In ironical reference to the agitation for Senate reform, which has arisen throughout Canada, Senators Barnard and Green opened their long diatribe in The Colonist yesterday with the swan song of the ancient gladiators, "morituri te salutant," and followed it with the observation, "like the gladiators of old, we, about to die, salute you."

There is something inspiring as well as suggestive in the dip of these two Senators into classic lore or, shall we say, into the back pages of the ordinary dictionary devoted to stock classical quotations. It will be noted that they liken themselves unto the stalwart gladiators who were about to battle to the death in the arena. Our imaginative power can not function very freely during the warm weather, so we are unable to envisage them in that role. It seems easier to picture them rather as occupants of that section of the amphitheatre set aside for the accommodation of members of the Roman Senate, ready to turn their thumbs down as a signal for the quick dispatch of some prostrate gladiator every time Caligula or Nero nods to them from the imperial box.

How promptly, we recall, they turned down their thumbs, and how lustily they shouted "habet," when the bills designed to better the lot of the Canadian gladiators disabled in the arena of the Great War or the dependents of those who were killed or died of wounds or sickness, came before them in the Senate. Then, we remember, they were not gladiators; they were the "watch-dogs of the treasury." And, come to think of it, the gladiators to whom they so magniloquently liken themselves did not draw $4,000 per annum from the Caesarian treasury?

No, we can not see them as Roman gladiators, and we are unable to appreciate the aptness of their quotation of "morituri te salutant." It is easier to comprehend the application of that rousing air "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," a rallying song of many modern organizations, including the bootleggers' convention which was held in Seattle some months ago.

SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS.

Saanich is on the right track in adopting any measure that shall insure a wider and more careful supervision of children's recreation in the school playground. Character moulding does not begin and end in the home any more than it begins and ends within the four walls of the average classroom. The broader application of youthful training must embrace the hours of recreation. For it will be agreed without hesitation that the boy who excels in the more important of his educational studies, and yet remains a prig among his fellows, has not discovered the secret of playing the game. His active association with the rest of his kind and his participation in their amusements may not be essential to the development of those desirable qualities that make and mature the man. At the same time most people will agree that the Anglo-Saxon race owes much of its mental and physical virility to the influence of the playing fields.

THE SENATOR'S PLEA.

The chief point in the long statement issued by Senators Barnard and Green in The Colonist yesterday, regarding the Senate's rejection of the liquor importation bill, was that Attorney-General Manson has ample power to prohibit the establishment of export liquor warehouses; that all he has to do is to withhold his consent to the requests to Ottawa for permission to operate these concerns and the Dominion Government will not grant the privilege. In that case, these Senators claim, the bill which was turned down by the Senate was unnecessary for this particular purpose.

When Senator Barnard presented this unique contention in the Senate he was promptly bowled over by the recital of the decision of the Department of Justice that the bill was absolutely necessary, because without it neither the Government of Canada nor the Government of British Columbia had the power under existing legislation to prohibit the establishment of export liquor warehouses. That decision already has been given in these columns, but it will bear repetition:

> "Neither the Government of British Columbia nor the Government of Canada has power to prohibit the establishment or maintenance of export liquor warehouses. Importers have the right under section 81 (present Customs Act) to enter the imported goods 'for warehouse' subject only to such rules and regulations as are from time to time prescribed by the Governor-in-Council in that behalf. It is clear that under this statute the Government has power to regulate and control such warehouses, but not to prohibit them. The suggestion that the Government could bring about the abolishment of these warehouses by refusing to license them does not appear to be in point, as I am unable to find any provision of the law providing for the licensing of such warehouses. They have their existence by virtue of the statute and not by license of the Government."

Senator Barnard's legal attainments may be quite impressive, but we are not sufficiently enthusiastic over them to accept his contention in the face of the authoritative pronouncement we have just quoted. It is obvious, therefore, that if neither the Government of Canada nor the Government of British Columbia singly or in co-operation has the power without special legislation such as that which was rejected by the Senate to prohibit the establishment of export liquor warehouses, the only course which was open to the Attorney-General was to make those places pay heavily for the privilege of carrying on business in this Province, even though the amount involved roused the indignation of the two Senators who are so deeply concerned over the welfare of these establishments.

OUR TIMBER INDUSTRY.

British Columbia has reason to be proud of the condition of her timber industry. The figures given out by Mr. Pattullo indicate the growth of the business during the first six months of the present year as compared with the first half of 1922—that period being regarded at the time as more than ordinarily gratifying.

The Minister expresses the view that the timber industry will never again reach the low level which caused a good deal of alarm some years ago. Nor is there any reason to doubt this optimistic prophesy. There is in existence now an organization that is concerned with co-operative export and as long as its progressive methods shall be pursued there would seem to be nothing to fear. Our timber is known in the world's markets and it should not be difficult to keep it there and increase its popularity.

Sealing returns for the first six months of the present year are something like 400,000,000 feet in excess of the corresponding period of last year. British Columbians would do well to remember that this is still another reason why they should protect their own property during the dry season of the year.

SENATORIAL INSTRUCTION.

Once again we are informed by Senators Barnard and Green that the Senate has no excuses to make for its action in connection with the Canada Temperance Act because "we acted in accordance with the wishes of the people of this Province."

Once again these estimable guardians of the rights of the people ignore the fact that the Legislature of this Province has passed two resolutions praying for the very legislation against which both Senators went to some trouble to record their objection by word and vote.

Once again it seems necessary to ask Senators Barnard and Green whether they consider the local Legislature in the nature of a representative institution in this Province or whether they consider it to be the duty of the Senate to instruct provincial legislators and the people upon whose authority they are conducting the business of British Columbia.

Once again we shall remark to Senators Barnard and Green that they know that the people of this Province are fully competent to look after their own business—Senator Green admitted this much at Nelson—without recourse to a guiding policy which the Senate has manufactured out of political material.

CANADA IN TRAFALGAR SQUARE.

News comes from London to the effect that the Canadian High Commissioner has leased premises on the West side of Trafalgar Square for the Dominion Government's offices in the Empire's metropolis. No better spot in the whole of London is more adaptable for the conduct of Canadian business on the other side of the Atlantic. Number nineteen Victoria Street must have given Mr. Larkin more than one attack of the blues. It retained its mid-Victorian atmosphere and outlook and was no more suited for the headquarters of a young and thriving Dominion like Canada than the unexplored regions of darkest Africa.

In spite of all the arguments in favor of establishing the High Commissioner in the City—that is to say East of Temple Bar—it can be set down that the people who pass the Royal Exchange on six days of the week are not the people who are thinking about Canada as a new home. Trafalgar Square is the hub of the British Empire and the world and his wife are continually passing Nelson's column. For this reason it will be found that the establishment of the High Commissioner's office in this spot will be good advertising and good business for this country.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Irish Free State has sent a number of military officers to study the French army and its management. It is suggested that Britain has no objection to the procedure followed. And the Dublin authorities are not looking for fresh trouble.

Premier Mussolini seems to have a way with him that helps him to strengthen his position in Parliament in spite of policies that seem to defy every form of democratic usage and practice. His electoral reform does away with proportional representation and gives the party obtaining the most votes two-thirds of the seats in the Chamber.

Russia has agreed to sign the Straits Convention in order to see whether her collaboration with the Allies in such matters will be attended by all the peaceful advantages that seem likely. This is all very condescending on the part of the Moscow authorities; but as long as the Russian signature is appended its Government's patronizing air may be ignored.

OUR CONTEMPORARIES

SELF-INFLATION RUINOUS.

Toronto Star:—The Canadian strawberry is a fine product with a perfect flavor. The trouble with those imported American strawberries is that they spend all their effort in trying to be the biggest on earth. Some of them puff up so much in trying to attain size that they have hollow interiors, like footballs.

AT COMPOUND INTEREST.

Toronto Star:—Toronto's population shows a tendency to double every sixteen years. If that continues Toronto will have a population in the year 2,000 approximating 17,000,000. But figures are dangerous things. Toronto had two motor cars in 1899 and has 40,000 to-day—twenty thousand times as many! And if the number of motorcars multiplies in that proportion—if there are twenty thousand times as many every 24 years—there will be 320,000,000,000,000,000 in 1995. It hardly seems enough.

ORANGEMEN WILL MEET IN LONDON

World Council Chooses British Capital for 1926 Convention

Officers Elected at Closing Session in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, July 23.—The Imperial Grand Orange Council of the World will hold its convention in 1926 in London, England. This was decided before the triennial convention here came to an end Saturday afternoon. A cordial invitation was extended by the Imperial Grand Lodge of England.

Officers

The whole slate of officers was elected by acclamation. Sir James H. Stronge, of Ireland, being re-elected Imperial Grand Master, and Frederick Dane, of Toronto, formerly Imperial Grand Vice-president, succeeding Rev. David Ness, of Glasgow, Scotland, as Imperial Grand President.

Other officers of the Council are: Past Imperial Grand Presidents—Robert Burns, of Toronto; Col. R. H. Wallace, C.B., Downpatrick, Ireland; Judge J. H. Scott, Perth, Ont.

First Imperial Vice-president — William Coote, M.P., of Belfast, Ireland.

Second Imperial Vice-president — T. R. Lavery, M.P., Newtownards, Ireland.

Imperial Grand Chaplain — Rev. P. C. Ward-Whafe, Lunenburg, N.S.

Imperial Deputy Grand Chaplain—Rev. T. W. Williams-Fisher, D.D., of Birmingham, England.

Imperial Grand Secretary—John Easton, of Winnipeg (re-elected).

Imperial Grand Treasurer—James Rive, of Glasgow, Scotland; J. J. Tulk, of Vancouver, B.C.; Benjamin Alexander, of London, England.

Imperial Grand Lecturers, Robert Dawson, of Regina, Sask.; W. N. Cross, of Belfast, Ireland.

Imperial Grand Director of Ceremonies—Col. Tom Duff, of Toronto.

Imperial Deputy Grand Secretary—Loftus H. Reid, of Toronto (re-elected).

David Catt, of London, Grand Master of the Grand Orange Lodge of England, was made an honorary vice-president and was cheered heartily by the delegates, this being the first time in the history of the triennial council this was done.

Balance on Hand

Showing a balance of £215 to the credit of the Council, the report of the Imperial Grand Treasurer, submitted by Joseph Cloughley, of Glasgow, Scotland, the Deputy Treasurer, called forth a notice of motion by Sir James Outram, Calgary, Alta., that at the next meeting of the Council, in 1926, he would suggest the raising of the tax from five cents to eight cents. The per capita tax, he said, was insufficient to meet expenditures and carry on useful and necessary work.

A Resolution

Demanding the immediate recall of the British envoy to the Vatican, the Grand Council, at its closing session, endorsed the resolution forwarded to it by McLeod Lodge, of Govan, Scotland, the Council believing it embodied the unanimous and emphatic opinion of universal Orangeism. The Imperial Grand President was instructed to forward the resolution to the proper authorities.

Following is the text of the resolution:

"That this great meeting, representative of all the grand lodges of the British Empire, demand His Majesty's Government withdraw immediately the British envoy to the Vatican, in view of the fact that diplomatic relations with the Pope are an infringement of the constitution and a grave menace to the welfare of the British Empire."

Women Elected Officers

At the final session of the Grand Lodge of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association Saturday, the election of officers, begun Friday afternoon, was completed as follows:

Grand Lecturer—Mrs. Hattie Edgar, of Calgary (re-elected).

Deputy Grand Lecturer—Miss Jennie Mills, of Smith's Falls, Ont.

Deputy Grand Secretary — Mrs. Lewis, of Regina.

Deputy Grand Treasurer — Mrs. Roberts, of Montreal.

Director of Ceremonies—Mrs. J. McQuade, of Winnipeg.

Grand auditors—R. Bell, of Toronto, and J. Pearson, of Toronto.

Representatives from the L.O.B.A. to the Grand Lodge of British America—W. Banfield, of Toronto, and R. Bell, of Toronto.

The association decided to allocate $800 of its funds to each of the provinces in Canada for organization purposes, Ontario West giving its share to the other provinces which are in need.

STRAWBERRY CROP EXPORTS FROM HERE TOTAL 43 CARS

That Is Twice Total Shipment to Prairies Last Year

Market Conditions Bad; Apple Output This Season Showing Increase

The Victoria district and Island strawberry crop is over, with a total of 43 carloads shipped to the Prairies from here, it was announced to-day by the Department of Agriculture.

Only 19 carloads were shipped in 1922, but the jam contracts were much heavier in 1922 than this year.

Raspberries and logans are now in full swing, with the crop excellent, but market conditions are unsatisfactory. Five mixed carloads of logans and raspberries have been shipped to the Prairies so far.

Sweet cherries are about over. What gave prospect of an excellent crop turned out poorly owing to heavy rains causing the fruit to split and brown rot to develop.

Pears and plums will be light. Apples will show an increase and are sizing well.

On the lower Mainland the increased moisture this season has caused a setback to the raspberry and logan crop. Most of the picking has been for canning and jam, but several carloads are now being shipped east. Mold on the berries has been causing much concern, but it is now disappearing with the warm weather.

Apples and pears on the lower Mainland are showing considerable scab and brown rot is showing up on the stone fruits.

Good yields in field and grain seem assured.

HARD-HEADED

The negro above accidentally dropped a brick, hitting the one on the ground squarely on the head.

He was indignant, and yelled to the one above: "Be a little moah carful up thar, nigger. That brick hit me and made me bite mah tongue."

Federal Department Explains Why No Changes Can Be Made

A letter read at the Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting to-day contained the information that the sum of $15,000 had been voted for an office building for the Dominion Observatory.

No action with regard to improving the roadway leading to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Saanich Hill is contemplated, the directors were notified to-day. A letter from T. B. Hunter, Deputy Minister, Federal Department of Public Works, gave the reasons in a letter written in reply to one forwarded by the Chamber. "No action whatever is to be taken," the letter raid, "as there is in contemplation an addition to the building which, if carried out, would break up all this roadway, and therefore it is considered advisable to leave the attention of the roadway over unti lthe addition to the building has been completed."

LIQUOR BOARD NOT TO SEE PRESIDENT

Attorney-General Manson gave out an announcement to-day that there was nothing in the story published by morning newspapers in Victoria and Vancouver that members of the Liquor Control Board were to have an interview with President Harding in Vancouver this week about supplying liquor to the Yukon by shipping it across the strip of "dry" Alaska.

"I'd just like to know who is responsible for that story," he said, explaining that it was not the Government policy at all. He doubted that any member of the Liquor Board the storyever said all that was credited to him in the story.

He said that the issue had been under consideration at Ottawa and Washington for the last year, but nothing had been done. He added that the President could not be expected to give the slightest attention to such a matter while on the present trip and that the Government certainly had no intention of doing anything at all suggested in the story.

NOBODY'S MAN

"Stephen Dartrey," Miller answered. "He and Miss Miall and I are staying not far from you."

"Stephen Dartrey?" Lady Jane murmured.

"Dartrey?", Tallente echoed. "Do you mean to say that he is over at the Manor now?"

"Waiting to see you," Miller announced, and for a moment there was a little gleam of displeasure in his eyes.

Lady Jane sighed.

"Now, if only you'd brought him over with you, Mr. Miller," she said, a shade more amiably, "you would have given me real pleasure. There is no man whom I am more anxious to meet."

Miller smiled tolerantly.

"Dartrey is a very difficult person," he declared. "Although he is the leader of our party, and before very long will be the leader of the whole Labor Party, although he could be Prime Minister to-morrow if he cared about it; he is one of the most retiring men whom I ever knew. At the present moment I believe that he would have preferred to have remained living his hermit's life, a writer and a dilettante, if circumstances had not dragged him into politics. He lives in the simplest way and hates all society save the company of a few old cronies."

"What does Dartrey want with me?" Tallente interrupted, a little brusquely.

"It is no part of my mission to explain," Miller replied. "I undertook to come here and beg you to return at once."

Tallente turned to Lady Jane.

"You will forgive me?" he begged. "In any case, I must have been going in a few minutes."

"I should forgive you even if you went without saying good-bye," she replied, "and I can assure you that I shall envy you. I do not want to turn your head," she went on pleasantly, as she walked by his side towards the door and across the hall, rather ignoring Miller, who followed behind, "but for the last two or three years the only political figures who have interested me at all have been Dartrey and yourself—you as the man of action, and Dartrey as the most wonderful exponent of the real, higher Socialism. I had a shelf made for his three books alone. They hang in my bedroom and I look upon them as my textbooks."

"I must tell Dartrey this," Miller remarked from behind. "I am sure he'll be flattered."

"What can he want with you?" Lady Jane asked, dropping her voice a little.

"I can't tell," Tallente confessed. "His visit puzzles me. He is the hermit of politics. He seldom makes advances and has few friends. He is, I believe, a man with the highest sense of honor. Perhaps he has come to explain to me why they threw me out at Hellesfield."

"In any case," she said, as they stood for a moment on the step, "I feel that something exciting is going to happen."

Miller, carrying his tweed cap in hand, insisted upon a farewell.

"Sorry to have taken your guest away, Lady Jane," he said. "It's an important occasion, however. Would you like me to bring Dartrey over, if we are out this way before we go back?"

She shook her head.

"No, I don't thing so," she answered quietly. "I might have an illusion dispelled. Thank you very much, all the same."

Mr. Miller stepped into the car, a little discomfited. Tallente lingered on the step.

"You will let me know?" she begged.

"I will," he promised. "It is probably just a visit of courtesy. Dartrey must feel that he has something to explain about Hellesfield."

There was a moment's curious lingering. Each seemed to seek in vain for a last word. They parted with a silent handshake. Tallente looked around at the corner of the avenue. She was still standing there, gazing after the car, slim, cool and stately. Miller waved his cap and she disappeared.

The car sped over the moorland. Miller, with his cap tucked into his pocket, leaned forward, taking deep gulps of the wonderful air.

"Marvelous!" he exclaimed. "Tallente, you ought to live for ever in such a spot!"

"What does Dartrey want to see me about?" his companion asked, a little abruptly.

Miller coughed, leaned back in his place and became impressive.

"Tallente," he said, "I don't know exactly what Dartrey is going to say to you. I only know this, that it is very possible he may make you, on behalf of all of us—the Democratic Party, that is to say— an offer which you will do well to consider seriously."

"To join your ranks, I suppose?"

"I must not betray a confidence," Miller continued cautiously. "At the same time, you know our power, you have insight enough to guess at our destiny. It is an absolute certainty that Dartrey, if he chooses, may be the next Prime Minister. You might have been in Horlock's Cabinet but for an accident. It may be that you are destined to be in Dartrey's."

Tallente found his thoughts playing strange pranks with him. No man appreciated the greatness of Dartrey more than he. No man, perhaps, had a more profound conviction as to the truth and future of the principles of which he had become the spokesman. He realized the irresistible power of the new democracy. He was perfectly well aware that it was within Dartrey's power to rule the country whenever he chose. Yet there seemed something shadowy about these things, something unpleasantly real and repulsive in the familiarity of his companion, in the thought of association with him. He battled with the idea, treated it as a prejudice, analyzed it. From head to foot the man wore the wrong clothes in the wrong manner—boots of a vivid shade of brown, thick socks without garters, an obviously ready-made suit of grey flannel, a hopeless tie, an unimaginable collar. Even his ready flow of speech suggested the gifts of the tubthumper, his indomitable persistence, a lack of sensibility. He knew his facts, knew all the stock arguments, was brimful of statistics, was argumentative, convincing, in his way sincere. Tallente acknowledged all these things and yet found himself wondering, with a grim sense of irony, how he could call a man "Comrade" with such finger nails!

"It's given you something to think about, eh?" Miller remarked affably.

Tallente came to himself with a little start.

"I'm afraid my mind was wandering," he confessed.

His companion smiled knowingly. He was conscious of Tallente's aloofness, but determined to break through it if he could. After all, this caste feeling was absurd. He was, in his way, a well-known man, a member of Parliament, a future Cabinet Minister. He was the equal of anybody.

"Don't wonder at it! Pleasant neighbors hereabouts, eh?"

Tallente affected to misunderstand. He glanced around at the few farmhouses dotted in sheltered places amongst the hills.

"There are very few of them," he answered. "That makes this place all the more enjoyable for any one who comes for a real rest."

Miller felt that he was suffering defeat. He opened his lips and closed them again. The jocular reference to Lady Jane remained unspoken. There was something in the calm aloofness of the man by his side which intimidated even while it annoyed him. Soon they commenced the drop from the moorland to where, far away below, the Manor with its lawn and gardens and outbuildings seemed like a child's pleasure palace. Miller leaned forward and pointed downwards.

"There's Dartrey sitting on the terrace," he pointed out. "Dartrey and Nora Miall. You've heard of her, I expect?"

"I know her by repute, of course," Tallente admitted. "She is a very brilliant young woman. It will give me great pleasure to meet her."

Tallente took tea that afternoon with his three guests upon the terrace. Before them towered the wood-embosomed cliffs, with here and there great red gashes of scarred sandstone. Beyond lay the sloping meadow, with its clumps of bracken and grey stone walls, and in the background a more rugged line of rocky cliffs. The sea in the bay flashed and glittered in the long rays of the afternoon sunshine. The scene was extraordinarily peaceful.

FEDERAL MINISTER'S DAUGHTER IS WED

Nuptials of F. P. Whitman and Miss Jennie Stewart; Bridegroom's Relatives Here

A wedding of widespread interest took place at Killam, Alta, on Tuesday, July 17, when Robina Jane Millicent (Jennie), daughter of the Hon. Charles Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, became the bride of Frederick Primrose Whitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whitman, of Lawrence Town, Nova Scotia. As former Premier of Alberta, Hon. Charles Stewart was well known in the province. After the appointment of Mr. Stewart to the Cabinet position with the Dominion Government, as Minister of the Interior, Miss Stewart, with the Stewart family, has resided in Ottawa.

Mr. Whitman, the bridegroom, is a nephew of Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, of Victoria. He is a mining engineer, being a graduate of the University of Alberta. Miss Margaret Whitman, of Victoria, sister of the bridegroom, attended the wedding.

The ceremony was performed by His Lordship, Bishop Gray, Bishop of Edmonton, in St. George's Anglican Church at Killam, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, the interior of the church being beautifully decorated with wild flowers for the occasion.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in Roman silk crepe, embroidered in orange blossoms and trimmed with pearls. She wore the conventional wreath of orange blossoms and bridal veil which reached to the hem of the long court train and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. Master Charles Caldwell, nephew of the bride, was trainbearer.

Preceding the bridal party were two dainty flower girls, nieces of the bride, the little Misses Jane and Eleanor Caldwell, who carried baskets of sweet peas.

Miss Christine Stewart attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore mauve organdie with hat to match and carried mauve sweet peas. Miss Marjorie McNab, in green organdie, Miss Rose Stewart, sister of the bride, in peach-colored organdie and Miss Greta Simpson, in blue organdie, attended as bridesmaids. They wore hats to match the color of their gowns and carried bouquets of sweet peas.

SALAD-MAKING WAS DEMONSTRATED AT SOUTH SAANICH W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the South Saanich Women's Institute was held in the Temperance Hall, Keating, on Thursday evening. Owing to the busy season there was not such a good attendance of members, but several visitors were present.

A paper on industries was read by Mrs. Nimmo and proved very interesting to the members. It was decided to hold the Vegetable and Flower Show on Saturday, September 15. Committees for this event will be appointed later. The Women's and Men's Institutes will hold a joint picnic at the Experimental Farm on Saturday, August 11, when the morning will be spent in viewing the farm and the afternoon in sports and games. All members and friends are cordially invited to attend.

After the business of the meeting was dispensed with Mrs. Gordon, of Victoria gave a very instructive and interesting demonstration on salad making. Three different salads were made and then served and all proved very delicious yet economic. Mrs. Gordon also gave a short address on the aims and objects of the Local Council of Women. The programme for the evening being "A Night With Canadian Celebrities" each member was requested to answer the roll call with their choice. Refreshments were then served and a social half hour spent with the men's Institute.

SWISS HOTELS ON "VIRTUE" CAMPAIGN

Demand Marriage Certificates of Visiting Couples at Berne

Measures advocated by the Local Council of Women some time ago tending to make the registration of an unmarried couple at a hotel an offence against the Criminal Code, are recalled by a dispatch from Paris.

The item reads:

"Couples staying at Swiss hotels are being asked to show their marriage certificates. Honeymoon couples of course, have been able quickly to satisfy the demands of the moralist police, but in other cases long suffering husbands have had further burdens thrust upon them having to send home for the necessary papers.

A Swiss member of Parliament staying with his wife at an hotel at Berne had to submit to a midnight visit from the police and the officials were not satisfied until they saw proof of his marriage."

At 6 p.m. a huge cloth was spread on the lovely lawn and a delicious supper, prepared by the ladies, was served. After supper the races were continued, causing much amusement. Ice cream was served both afternoon and evening. Among the guests were Lawrence Hafer, of Keating, who arrived from the Eastern States on Friday after an absence of three and a half years, and Miss Dorothy Thompson, who is spending the Summer in Victoria after teaching in Northern B. C. for several years. Both were heartily welcomed.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS

London, July 23.—Navestock, Essex, which claims to be the happiest village in England, on account of the large number of married pairs who completed one year for the gammon of bacon awarded by the village club, has been forced to resort to a process of selection, and only five pairs were admitted before the jury.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hagger, the winners, attributed their sixteen years of unbroken married happiness to the husband's skill as an accordion player, his melodies having soothed the seven children.

The second prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Turner, who have eleven children and fifty grandchildren.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By HELEN KENDALL

A Veranda Kitchen

"Come out to my kitchenized veranda," invited a housewife whose neighbor had dropped in during the morning to get a pattern. And she led the way through the house to the back porch, now transformed into an outdoor Summer kitchen.

"You see I got to wondering the other day why we go to so much trouble to make our front verandas into outdoor living rooms, and then go on cooking and doing ironing in a hot, enclosed kitchen, when we have all this porch space at our very back doors. My rear veranda here was empty except for a wood chest and two milk bottles! It is one of the coolest places in the house on a warm day, and yet it was entirely unused.

"So yesterday I put on my thinking cap instead of my dust cap, and moved my entire kitchen equipment out here, except for the gas stove, which is built in and cannot be budged. Here is my little table for preparing vegetables, you see, and for beating up cake or making salads. Over here is my ironing board, with the electric cord of the iron going in through the open window to the plug inside. (The entire porch is screened in, so I don't have to have a screen in the window, but even so a notch could be cut for the cord to slip through).

"I do everything out here except the actual cooking. And even while that is going on I step out here in the cool air and make desserts or salads, or roll butter balls. There is no need to hang over a hot stove, now that we have covered roasting pans that do away with basting and fireless cookers to do the drudgery. I even bring my dish pan out here and wash the glass, silver and smaller dishes. It reduces my minutes in the kitchen to a minimum, and not only is cooler these hot days, but gives me a change of scene. When I go back to my cosy kitchen in the cool Autumn days, I know I shall enjoy it more than ever."

MATRIMONY AIDED BY ADVERTISEMENT

"It pays to advertise—for a wife."

So chorus Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Webb, one of Auburn's oldest couples.

"Eveen if it is only a two-inch ad," says Henry.

"For the return was great," chimes in Grandmother Webb. "It brought sixty years of happiness."

"Sixty-one," retorted her husband. And they almost had their first quarrel.

But a kindly smile from the old lady stopped the man, and they told their story:

Back in the early days of the Civil War, advertising wasn't the science it is to-day, and Henry didn't have much confidence in the "new-fangled idea." But he had enlisted with the First New York Light Artillery, was away from his friends and home at Malone, N. Y., and lonesome. Besides he was only 15. So he decided to take a chance.

He sent a two-line advertisement to The Literary Companion, published in Pennfield, asking if some girl wouldn't write to him "just for the fun of matrimony."

The ad came to Susan E. Sharp, typesetter in the composing room of the little paper. She wasn't lonesome, but she was patriotic. So she wrote to the young soldier boy.

For sixteen months they exchanged letters. But it was not until 1863 that Webb obtained a furlough. He hutried up to the little town near Rochester to meet the girl he had learned to love by mail.

Within the fifteen days they were married, and the young bridegroom went back to his regiment with a new incentive to bring the war to a close. He fought in thirty-seven battles and witnessed the surrender of General Lee. Then he came back home to his waiting bride.

"Courting in those days wasn't as easy as it is now," says Henry. "We rode horseback when we went a'courting, and had to beat the other fellows to it. There were no phones or rural mail deliveries then, either.

"That's right," acquiesced Mrs. Webb. "And the girls then didn't think so much about dress. I had two dresses a year, one of flax and one of wool, both home-grown and home-made. We saved our shoes and didn't put them on until just before we started for church or a dance."

The secret of their happiness?

"Work," they chorus. "We've been happy because we haven't had time to be anything else. Young folks these days don't work hard enough. The trouble nowadays is that married folks have things too easy."

H.M.S. Curlew Leaves For Honolulu July 27

Will Visit Christmas Island, Fanning Island, Washington Island and Honolulu Before Returning to San Francisco and San Diego—Proceeded to Vancouver To-day

After visiting Vancouver for four days H.M.S. Curlew, Captain L. Stanley Holbrook, will leave direct for her trip to Honolulu, Christmas Island, Fanning Island and Washington Island, where she will make a nine-week cruise.

The Curlew left this morning at 9.10 o'clock for Vancouver, where she will remain until after President Harding's visit. H.M.C.S. Patrician will escort the West Indies squadron vessel to her mooring in Vancouver. The Patrician left at 8.45 o'clock.

Leaves July 27

The Curlew is scheduled to leave Vancouver on July 27 for her nine-week cruise to the islands already mentioned. The Patrician will, however, return to Victoria.

Aboard the Curlew, accompanying her to Vancouver, are a number of Regina R.C.N.V.R. men, who are staying with the vessel for a short training period. They will not, however, go to Honolulu with the ship.

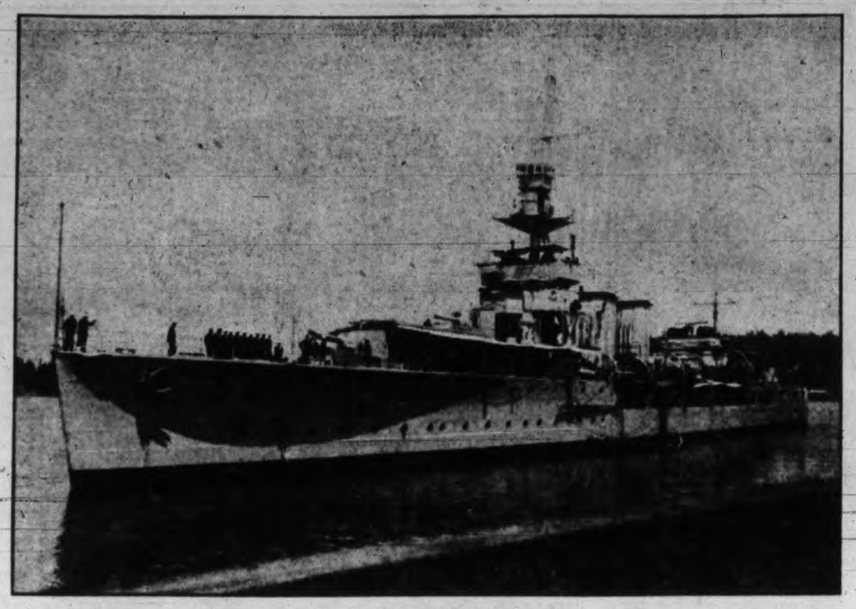

After her nine-week cruise among the islands the Curlew will return to the Pacific Coast, visiting San Francisco and San Diego. Following her visit there she will return to her naval base in the West Indies. This programme of movements, however, is subject to change.

To Welcome Preident

While in Vancouver the ship's crew and officers will participate with the city in welcoming President Harding, who will spend a day there on July 26.

The Curlew has been stationed at Victoria for fifteen days and during that period has entertained many visitors who have desired to inspect the vessel. On Sunday there was a large throng of visitors to see the ship prior to her departure for Vancouver. The crew on many occasions during their stay were entertained by the various organizations in town.

Will Leave Coast for Short Period

H. M. S. CURLEW

The H. M. S. Curlew, Captain L. Stanley Holbrook, left this morning for Vancouver, where she will participate in the welcoming of President Harding. The Curlew will leave on July 27 for a nine-week cruise to the Pacific Islands.

Log Salvage Must Stop, Police Warn Launch Men

Beachcombers and log fishers were filled with consternation last week when Otway Wilkie, senior constable of the provincial police, gave notice of enforcement of an order against further dabbling in log salving in Victoria district. Mr. Wilkie served warning that continuance of the practice of picking stray logs from beach or coastal waters for resale or consumption would be visited by the full weight of the Criminal Code of Canada.

Those launch owners who have been making a handsome side revenue from flotsam of the sea promptly mustered their resources of influence, even the smaller lumber manufacturers being arrayed in the beachcomb battle ranks. Representations to the provincial police and the Attorney-General became numerous and hard pressed until the little-known provisions of section 394 of the Criminal Code were laid before the mill men with the explanation that the drastic prohibition against handling logs afloat or ashore in coastal waters was for the benefit of the mill owners. The latter were liable to a jail sentence if the purchase of such retrieved logs could be proved even in good faith.

Sea Scavengers.

The attitude of launch owners and beach combers towards this restriction stresses the benefit to navigation through the collection of floating timbers and the cleaning up of the beaches. The Police Department points out that payment of salvage for logs is optional with the owner, therefore such labor in collection must be for purpose of resale or manufacture of other people's property, and so comes witnin the scope of the Code.

Lenient Hitherto.

Up to the present no cases have been brought to Court, but the Provincial constables have been busy notifying both mills and launch men to cease gathering and to refuse purchase of such stray logs. A number of men have been examined as to motives, and released after such scrutiny with a warning and instruction as to the peril taken.

Provision Misunderstood.

The log gatherers have relied for protection upon the provisions of a recent amendment to the Provincial Forestry Act, which allows scaling of retrieved timbers, notification of the brand owner that measurement has been for the benefit of a beachcomber, and sale of the timber thereafter if the owner takes no action following receipt of the scaler's notice.

It is pointed out by the Police Department that this proviso does not take precedence of the Canadian Criminal Code, but is for the protection of organized log retrieving parties operated by boom owners and mills. As no provision for salvage pay is made, it is of no benefit to the itinerant beachcomber.

Another reliance of the waterfront men concerned is their claim that logs retrieved are from the American side, but it is pointed out that the Code makes no distinction.

"THE CHANGELINGS" HERE TWO NIGHTS

Miss Bates Is Both Mother and Actress

Blanche Bates, co-star with Henry Miller's company in "The Changelings," in which they will begin a two days' engagement at the Royal Theatre Monday night, is a striking example of the woman who can be signally successful both as an artist and a mother. Miss Bates, who is in private life the wife of George Creel, well-known journalist, has domestic responsibilities as well as a professional career. Two of these responsibilities are Frances Creel, 8, and George Bates Creel, 6, whose winsome little faces adorn a large double frame on the table in their mother's dressing-room.

"My life," confessed Miss Bates, "has furnished my husband with material for no end of discussion. He can't go the length of open objection, however, for his guns are spiked. He is the man who helped put the 'fem' in feminism. He has always been an ardent advocate of the principal that a woman, whether married or single, has the same right to a career as a man, and he couldn't very well insist that his own wife should be the first and only exception to this broad-minded policy. So far as his own household is concerned, however, I think he has a thoroughly conventional notion that a woman's place is in the home. And the surprising thing about it is that I agree with him absolutely.

"I have been away from home for four months on this tour, and the farther away I get the more certain I am that home is the best and most useful place, as well as the happiest place for me. You will discover that very shortly if you ever try to conduct a household by long-distance telephone. I could write a book on hiring servants by the telephone method. When you gasp in amazement at the piratical wages they ask, they think you are deaf and shout back the outrageous figures at you. I know the dust is gathering thick on the piano and the draperies need cleaning. Not that I would do these things myself if I were at home, but I would see to it that all such work was done at the proper time and in the proper way.

"My one consolation is that my children are in excellent hands. I have a perfect jewel of a woman with them. In fact, she handles them more successfully than I do, for she keeps them in school. When I am at home the little dears wheedle me into granting them extra holidays, which I know they shouldn't have, but which I can't just refuse them, because I want to romp with them. Then, too, their father is right on the job as a sort of double parent in one. It was a great joy for me to be able to be with the children at Christmas."

"Enemies of Women" Will Be Presented All Week

A boudoir set that vies in its exotic beauty with any ever fashioned for a motion picture is the one which was designed by Joseph Urban, celebrated scenic artist, for a scene in "The Enemies of Women," Cosmopolitan's picturization of Vicent Blasco Ibanez's popular story, which will be seen all this week at the Dominion Theatre.

The boudoir revealed is that of Alicia, the Duchess de Delille, impersonated in the picture by Alma Rubens. In the story and picture, Alicia is represented as a beautiful woman who is a little beyond her youth and who is in dread that Prince Lubimoff, portrayed by Lionel Barrymore, with whom she is in love may learn that she is the mother of a sixteen-year-old son.

The boudoir itself is a most luxuriously furnished room, while a dressing room, which is revealed attached to it in the rear, is cunningly fashioned to contribute to the appearance of a woman who is beginning to lose her youth. Both rooms are exotic in character. In neither are there any chairs but in both rooms cushions are piled high on the floor. There is also in the dressing room a long cheval glass in an elaborate frame, in which Alicia is revealed anxiously studying herself in different poses—a perfect picture of the tragedy of a woman getting old.

Lionel Barrymore and Miss Rubens are featured in "The Enemies of Women," the cast of which also includes Pedro de Cordoba, Gareth Hughes, W. H. Thompson, Gladys Hulette and William Collier, Jr.

"PRISONER OF ZENDA," COLUMBIA

Film Version of Popular Romance Meeting Many Friends En Route

One of the outstanding productions of the year, Rex Ingram's "The Prisoner of Zenda" comes to the Columbia Theatre to-day.

It is a story teeming with dramatic action, full of intrigue, romance and excitement. It concerns the adventures of an English gentleman, one Rudolf Rassendyll, who, because of a remarkable likeness to the ruler of the mythical kingdom of Ruritania, becomes for a time its actual ruler and wins the love of the Princess Flavia.

"The Prisoner of Zenda is the most popular romance of a generation. From the time when Anthony Hope, then more interested in his political career in England than in writing, composed it, the narrative of Rudolf Rassendyll's reckless adventure has taken hold of the hearts of all who read. This was the first of the stories of romance in little kingdoms in Europe, and no better indication can be had of its success than that it inspired hundreds of writers to imitate it. But none of the resulting stories had the zest, the devil-may-care spirit of the original, for that was written chiefly for the love of imagination the author had; it was as glamorous to him as to his readers.

In the hands of a director such as Rex Ingram, who made "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "The Prisoner of Zenda" has stepped out of the pages of the book and come to life on the screen, is the claim. Different essentially from "The Four Horsemen," as different as realism is from romance, the newer picture nevertheless has been done upon the same great scale and with the same faithfulness to the spirit of the written page. In every matter, from the designing of the settings which represent the Castle of Zenda to precision of court etiquette, Mr. Ingram took charge, and the result is a beautiful picture.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" is a Rex Ingram production for Metro, adapted by Mary O'Hara from the Edward Rose version of Anthony Hope's novel. It was photographed by John F. Seitz.

A cast of unusual excellence has been assembled for the production. Lewis Stone, Alice Terry, Robert Edeson, Stuart Holmes, Ramon Navarro, Barbara La Marr, Malcolm McGregor, Edward Connelly and Lois Lee.

NANAIMO WANTS PUBLICITY.

Nanaimo, July 23.—P. Lawlor Smith, Field Secretary for the Near East Relief in Northern California, Nevada and Hawaii is visiting his mother in this city. The highway from California and Southern States is crowded with motorists travelling to British Columbia, states Mr. Smith, who are in most cases anxious to get away from the semi-tropical Southern state climate. Mr. Smith states that a splendid opportunity is open to Nanaimo merchants or Board of Trade to advertise on the Washington highways the hours of sailings of the Nanaimo ferries to Vancouver Island.

"SPICE OF 1922" COMING TO ROYAL

Last Monday of Month Will See Revue Here

Gorgeous in its scenic investiture, hilarious in its comedy, keen in its satire, "Spice of 1922," the sensationally successful revue which occupied the boards of the New York Winter Garden last Summer and startled Broadway with its magnitude and magnificence, will be offered at the Royal Victoria.

It is now presented by Edward L. Bloom and sets a high water mark for future production effort. Mr. Bloom is general manager of the Winter Garden.

A company of 100 people, including a specially trained chorus of forty, is necessary for the big production, which is on a scale seldom seen outside of the largest of the New York theatres. The principals include practically the entire original company and the scenic investiture which will be staged here is the original, calling for the services of a small army of stage mechanics.

Musical comedy favorites and vaudeville headliners, such as El Brendel and Flo Bert, Arman Kaliz, Sam Hearn, Florence Browne, Johnny Derkes, Alice Ridnor, Betty Jones, Martha Throop, and Arthur Corey head the cast, which also includes such well known people as Thomas Morris, Evelyn Downing, James Gaylor, Elsie Wachta, Dolores Suarez, Alice Harris, Eddie Fox and Maris Chaney. The chorus is particularly attractive. It is a well known fact that they had much to do with the original success of the production at the Winter Garden.

Jack Lait, who wrote the book and lyrics of "Spice," is the famous author, playwright, newspaper man, war correspondent, critic et al, and he has written a profusion of clever lines and skits that make this offering stand out for its satire and humor, to say nothing of the topical sallies.

The entire production of "Spice"—book, music, lyrics, costumes, scenery, dancing and staging—is of a Tiffany lustre and moves at the highest possible speed. No scene lasts more than three or four minutes, and there is no "stalling" between scenes, of which there are more than thirty in "Spice."

Although it is American in its speed and pep, "Spice" has a French-y atmosphere of color and design. It seemingly was the object of the producers to stage comedy in the most elaborate of surroundings, and in this, according to the advance reports, they succeeded in the fullest measure. "The Spice of 1922" will be the attraction at the Royal one night, Monday, July 30.

FUNNY FARCE DUE AT PLAYHOUSE

"The Hottentot" Will Be Presented Next Week

This week's offering at the Playhouse will be that screamingly funny farce, "The Hottentot." This play was produced in 1920, in New York, by the celebrated comedian, William Collier, who played the chief part. It proved one of the biggest comedy successes of the season and has been played all over the country since to delighted audiences everywhere. It is a racing comedy and is particularly well chosen for this week when the race meeting commences at the Willows. Sam Harrington, the hero of the play, owing to an accident, is possessed with an uncontrolable fear and dislike for horses. Arriving in a fashionable hunting community, he finds, to his horror, that he is mistaken for another Sam Harrington, a well-known gentleman rider, and is expected to ride in a steeplechase the following day. For various reasons he is unable to disclose his true identity. His repeated efforts to avoid riding are the subject of much mirth, but finally, for a girls sake, he conquers his nervousness and rides "The Hottentot," an almost unmanageable horse, to victory. Mr. Compton will play Sam, and judging by the powers he has already shown as a mirth producer, a particularly hilarious time is in store for those who are fortunate enough to see him in this splendid part. All the other favorite members of the Company will be seen to advantage, and "The Hottentot" should carry the colors of the C. C. C. to another triumphant and hilarious victory.

See Pantages Theatre advertisement on page 7.

CAPITOL SHOWING IS MYSTERY FILM

Unusual Story With Unexpected Sequel Holds Interest Throughout

The story of "Backbone" deals with the fulfillment in the Twentieth Century of the love of two young people who lived hundreds of years ago. The setting is in Northern Maine, where Andre de Mersay rules the lumbering town of St. Croix with feudal control. Andre and his granddaughter—the last of the race—are proud. They cherish particularly the love story of the original Andre de Mersay, whose life was saved through the sacrifice of his sweetheart in the days of old France.

Yvonne goes to France to visit the home of her ancestors. When she returns she finds her grandfather confined to his room by a mysterious illness. She is informed by Anthony Bracken, manager of her grandfather's large interests, that she cannot see him. No explanation is offered except that it is her grandfather's desire. The beloved housekeeper, Mrs. Whidden, has been dismissed with all other servants and their places filled by a stolid Indian and a treacherous-looking Chinaman. Bracken has summoned as physician a reprehensible horse doctor known as Doc Roper, whom the girl loathes.

Yvonne is indignant, puzzled. She demands admission to her grandfather's room, but Bracken places the Indian on guard at the door of the old man's quarters. To add to the situation, a strange young man—John Thorne—has arrived in Saint Croix to see old Andre de Mersay on business of a mysterious nature. He is courteous but indifferent to Yvonne. This wounds her pride. Each day he visits the chateau, each day he is refused admission. Once he discloses the fact that he knows of the romantic love secret of Yvonne's ancestor. It puzzles the girl to know how he learned of this. Bracken is greatly mystified by Thorne, as is Yvonne.

Thorne makes a friend of Colonel Tip, proprietor of the local hotel and once a widely-known theatrical performer. Tip is a Lilliputian with a heart as big as a giant's. He is vitally interested in the situation at the de Mersay home and is an avowed antagonist of Doc Roper.

Yvonne grows lonesome and frightened. When affairs have reached the breaking point for Yvonne she decides to swallow her pride and enlist the help of Thorne. She is seeking him when she learns something which shows him, too, to be an enemy. He has bought a great strip of timber land on the East branch of the river—a tract which her grandfather had long planned to buy and hold to complete his domination of this territory. She decides to wreck Thorne's project. Thorne tells Yvonne he will cease work on his lumber mill only if Andre de Mersay requests him to do so, face to face.

This inspires Yvonne to renewed efforts to gain access to her grandfather. She calls on Bracken. During the conference Yvonne is startled to hear her grandfather's voice singing outside the window. Bracken is more upset by this than is the girl, but he seeks to hide the fact. On several other occasions the voice is heard singing a favorite old French ballad. Yvonne fears perhaps her grandfather is demented, but never can she find him outside and always the Indian is standing on guard before his door.

Yvonne meets an old servant and hears the story of how her grandfather was stricken. Andre had cried out: "Tell Yvonne—the tail of the dragon." This means nothing to the girl; it only puzzles her the more. Finally, with the keys which the servant has given her, Yvonne gets into her grandfather's room. It is empty! Her grandfather is gone. She is rescued after a terrible fight by John Thorne. Who Thorne is and how the girl discovers his identity form a thrilling climax to the story.

He was a young lawyer who had just started practising in a small town, and he hung his sign outside his office door. It read: "A. Swindler."

A stranger who called to consult him saw the sign and said: "My goodness, man, look at that sign! Don't you see how it reads? Put in your first name—Alexander, Ambrose, or whatever it is."

"Oh, yes, I know," said the lawyer, resignedly, "but I don't like to do it."

"Why not?" asked the client. "It looks bad as it is. What is your first name?"

"Adam."

PANTAGES BILL IS VERY ATTRACTIVE

Five-Day Show Here This Week; Exceptionally Good Features Promised

Another five days of good vaudeville entertainment is in store for Victoria theatregoers this week at the Pantages. The regular bill will run for three days and Friday and Saturday will be taken up by National Vaudeville Artists' Road Show. Saturday's matinee will be the only afternoon performance of this troupe. The usual prices will prevail at both shows.

On the top of the regular bill will be Romeo and his dancing dolls. Robert Jewett and a company of New York dancing girls will be on hand to assist in this top-line act, and promise a wonderfully fine exhibition of the newest novelty steps. Special music and a special pianist will be on hand.

What is claimed to be the fastest circus act in vaudeville is Carradini's animal presentation. This is something that is well worth seeing, as its equal is seldom before a Victoria audience. The monkeys and dogs, which are the most intelligent animals ever brought here, will give a most pleasing entertainment.

Frank Clarke and Danny O'Neil, are two singers whose talent is remarkable. They have an act which is full of comedy and attractive music stunts. Connell, Leona and Zippy will appear in "Variety a la Carte," introducing singing, acrobatic dancing and a wonderful dog mimic. "A Vaudeville Mixture," is something of a novelty, and is presented by Prevost and Goulet. This is another act with eccentric acrobatic feats holding prominence.

The performance on Friday and Saturday is most attractive, with Herbert Brooks, card manipulator and mystery man, taking a leading place with his act. "The $20,000 Trunk Mystery" is his grand presentation. George Nelson and Maude Day are prominent in an act filled with jazz and fun. They are billed as appearing in "a musical cocktail." They should provide a kick.

Miss Dena Cooper, popular actress, from Australia, has a most gripping act for the public of this city, entitled "The Confession." It is the type of playlette in which Miss Cooper is most attractive and she will leave this city with a host of admirers sorry to see her go. She is supported by an admirable cast.

Besides this playlette there is an added attraction in "Charley's Aunt," which includes every one connected with the vaudeville bill, and is promising as an exceptionally novel and amusing act. Edna Knowles and Roger Hurst appear in "Minnie and Chimmie," and are also very pleasing. Altogether the Friday and Saturday performances are apparently unusually fine, with plenty of laughter and thrills connected with them.

HARD RACES ARE REGATTA FEATURE

Royal Victoria Yacht Club Stages Successful Event in Honor of Navy Men

Hard fought races sailed under perfect conditions featured the Royal Victoria Yacht Club's regatta given at Cadboro Bay yesterday in honor of the crews of the Curlew and the Patrician. The ideal weather drew a large number of spectators, in addition to the yachting enthusiasts of the navy, and the regatta went on record as among the most successful staged by the club.

The cruiser race, which opened the programme, was full of excitement the whole way. Three Royal Victoria Yacht Club boats were sailed by navy men with a Yacht Club representative aboard to act as pilot only. Commander Harrison of the Curlew sailed the "Truant," Commander Oland of the Patrician, the "Cho Cho San"; Lt. Watson, the "Varuna," and Lt. Scott, "The Loon." The four got away to a good start with the "Truant" slightly in the lead. She was soon overtaken by the "Intrepid," and the "Cho Cho San" also passed the "Truant" on the beat to windward. They were, however, caught at the first mark by the "Truant" and on the run from the second mark the "Truant" overhauled them all and rounded with "Intrepid." From there it was a close race all the way to the finishing line and the "Intrepid" and the "Truant" crossed at the same instant, the "Truant" winning the race on her time allowance.

The "Loon" and the "Varuna" being slower boats made a close race between themselves, but were not fast enough to save the time allowance from the other boats. The navy skippers showed skill in handling the boats, and are evidently well versed in the sailing game.

The Star Boats.

The star boats in the next race proved a revelation to the naval officers used to cutters and whalers which do not handle so easily and had it been possible they would have liked to have taken them aboard their ships. Commander Harrison skippered the "Mintaka" to victory.

Laura Hope Crews in "The Changelings."

Lt.-Commander Oland came second in the "Milky Way," with the Cowichan Bay boat the "Kil-pat-is," sailed by Mr. Knocker, third.

The race for dinghies of the Victoria and Cowichan Bay clubs, sailed by naval officers and men, was eventful and thrilling. With a stiff breeze and the dinghies carrying all sail, close racing, exciting turns around the buoys in which some were nearly capsized and a lot of bailing were in evidence.

Several races in the popular Stars for officers who had not raced before were staged and a match race in the Star boats between Lt. Scott, of the Curlew, in the "Mintaka"; "The Milky Way," handled by H. D. Payne, and the Cowichan Club's Star boat the "Kil-pat-is" resulted in a win for the "Milky Way."

Tea was served on the spacious veranda of the club to about a hundred persons.

A great deal of credit for the success of the regatta is due to W. M. Hotham, Clifford Adams, and Ben Temple.

BORN A LANDLUBBER

Bill Conn's son wrote home to his daddy from near China on a navy cruise:

"I'm enlisted, all right, dad, and sailing a rough sea. God bless the man who invented farms and trees, and mountains and long walks in the country. This life is great, but, dad, if I ever get my left foot on shore again I'm going to keep my right foot moving after it!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

ALGERINE IS HAULED OUT FOR CLEANING

Will Have New Propeller Blades

May Increase Two Knots, Making 16 Knots An Hour

The Pacific Salvage Company's salvage ship Algerine was hauled out on the marine ways at Yarrows to-day for general cleaning and installation of new propellers, which it is expected will give more speed to the vessel.

The Algerine moved from her moorings at the Pacific Salvage dock in the Inner Harbor to Yarrows, Limited, yesterday, and to-day was hauled out on the marine railway for exchange of propellers. The new blades, which were cast by Yarrows, Limited, is of the same make as the ones she has at present, Maganese bronze, but of different design.

With the installation of the new blades two extra knots an hour is expected to be added to the vessel's speed. Her present speed is 14 knots an hour with something like 160 to 165 revolutions a minute.

Higher Pitch.

The new designed wheels will have a higher pitch than the ones just being discarded, while more surfaces will be another feature of the blades. This will reduce the number of revolutions a minute required to secure an increased speed and at the same time placed another two knots on the Algerine's present 14 knots per hour. It is expected that the vessel will be out by Wednesday, and a trial run will be given her so as to estimate the improvement that the new blades will have made.

The Blades.

Yarrows have had the order for some time for these blades, and casted them to fit the hubs which the Algerine has now. Six blades have been made altogether, three for each propeller, the vessel being a twin screw craft.

The object of the change is, as has already been stated, for greater speed and better quality blade. For some years the local branch of Yarrows, Ltd., has been experimenting and perfecting on a new composition for propellers, and as a result the management is able to turn out blades of a very tough quality. The blades are made up of a special mixture of ferro Manganese and other ingredients.

Instead of breaking the blades will bend. They can then be brought in, and bent into position, and once more installed. This greatly reduced the expense of the ship's operation.

Will Be Flanged.

In the case of the Algerine the blades will be flanged on to the present hub and the old ones discarded. The new blades have been casted to fit into the sockets of the old ones. This design of propeller, it might be mentioned, is also useful inasmuch as when one of the blades break the whole propeller does not have to be replaced.

NORWEGIAN FIRM WILL OPERATE THREE SHIPS IN ANTARCTIC

Star I, II and III Have Been Bought for Use in Whaling Industry

A Norwegian enterprise that bought the Star I., Star II. and Star III. of the United States Whaling Corporation, at Seattle, will soon leave for Sydney, Australia, where they will operate in the whaling industry.

Capt. E. Petterson will take command of the Star I., which is being outfitted with the other two vessels. The vessels are at present lying at the Eagle Harbor plant of the Winslow Marine Railway and Shipbuilding Company.

It was because of the reported scarcity of whales in the North Pacific taht the United States Whaling Corporation disposed of these three vessels. Since then it has been reported that the run of mammals in northern waters is not so scarce as at first thought. On company reports having taken 264 whales this season, up to a week ago.

The Star I., which will be commanded by Captain Petterson, although a small craft, will leave soon for Sydney, and will be followed later by the Star II. and Star III. Sydney will be the base of operations, and on arrival of the three whaling vessels an 8,000-ton vessel will join them and act as a kind of "mother ship."

The smaller craft will operate in waters closely adjacent to the Antarctic Ocean and far removed from ports of call. Capt. Petterson although having spent many years in North Sea and North Atlantic waters, knows something of Antarctic operations, and will be a valuable asset to the Norwegian concern. It will also be interesting to know that Capt. Petterson has had thirty-five years' experience in the whaling industry.

To Visit Honolulu.

While en route to their base the three whaling vessels will visit Honolulu, Tutuila and probably the Philippines, and then proceed to Sydney. This will break the journey, and enable the vessel to secure fresh supplies and replenish their fuel.

A Great European Production—A Mighty Drama of Europe's Gilded Social Set—Vicente Blasco Ibanez's (Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse") Latest Contribution to the Silver Screen

"ENEMIES OF WOMEN"

Actually Filmed in Paris, Petrograd, Riviera, Nice and Monte Carlo

TO OUR PATRONS

In all our experience as exhibitors of better pictures we have never shown a picture that we can recommend more highly and more enthusiastically than "Enemies of Women." The romance is fascinating, and the plot has been woven into a gripping play, and Ibanez's magnificent story has been recreated in a new and more beautiful form. It is, in our opinion, even better and greater than the author's previous success, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." We recommend it. You see it.

MAY REVIEW CLAIMS OF BOATBUILDERS

Chamber of Commerce Receives Reply on Representations to Ottawa

A review of the claims of the B. C. Yacht and Boat Builders for an allowance from the Federal Government to meet claims of creditors may result from the observations of the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber in a letter to Hon. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., called the attention of the Minister of Marine to the fact that there appeared to be an item in the estimates for $68,000 to be paid the creditors who supplied the contractor with goods in the construction of two Government vessels at Prince Rupert a few years ago. The contractor failed and the Government is now reimbursing to a certain extent the creditors involved. Dr. Tolmie replied that he had done so and continued, "I have pointed out to the minister this is exceedingly unfair in view of the fact that the B.C. Yacht and Boat Builders have a similar claim, and their claim is strengthened by the fact that they had assurances from the Agent of Marine and Fisheries to the effect that the Government would stand behind them in the event of the contractors failing. Under the circumstances I have pressed a review of the claims of the B.C. Yacht and Boat Builders.

Ministerial Position.

The Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries wrote that the claims had received very full consideration on a number of occasions but up to the present no decision has been reached in the direction of making provision for paying them. "As you are aware," he writes, "a contract for due performance of the work was entered into. This contract was subsequently enlarged at the request of the constructors to an amount that was regarded as sufficient to complete the work. Even after that enlargement of the contract, the Government was obliged to take over the work in an uncomplete state and finish the contract.

Action Deferred.

On the suggestion of B.C. Nicholas the matter was left in obeyance until the visit of Hon. J. H. King, Federal Minister of Public Works, when the whole matter will be presented before him at a luncheon.

PLAN TO REVIVE CHOLBERG YARDS

Every effort to make the Cholberg shipyard an addition to Victoria industries was recommended at today's luncheon of the directors by the Chamber of Commerce Committee appointed for the purpose of investigating the request of Mr. Cholberg to aid him in securing the release of the yards. The committee recommended that the Chamber go on record as commending the remarks of the learned judge during the recent court proceedings in the case of the Dominion Government vs. Cholberg. The committee also recommended that the chamber memorialize the proper government authorities to make an early settlement of the various litigated matters so that the shipyard might become a going concern instead of lying dormant and remaining a continuing source of expense.

Action was deferred for a week.

Two grass fires drew the attention of the Victoria Fire Department yesterday, one at Beacon Hill, and the other in the 221 Block, Oswego Street. Neither did serious damage.

The destruction of a prowling cat that devastated his chicken house by the slaughter of five chickens in succession was achieved by J. E. Coxworth at the cost of $10, the amount of a fine in the city police court today. Charged with the laying of poison without twenty-four hours' notice, accused said he was a prairie man, recently come to this city, and out of touch with local laws. The poison was laid in his yard.

The Sixteenth Canadian Scottish band held a most successful picnic at the Mid-Way tea rooms, Langford Lake, yesterday, the bandsmen enjoying themselves immensely. In the afternoon swimming was indulged in and Walter North gave an exhibition of fancy diving. During the afternoon the band rendered several selections which were enjoyed by the many tourists traveling along the road who stopped their cars to listen to the music.

Provincial Constable Smith is receiving congratulations to-day on taking four events at the Seattle police sports. He came first in the quarter and half mile, second in the 220-yard race, and third in the 100, all open. Cecil Hay won in the 100 and 220 open. Constable McPhail upheld the honor of the force in the 220-pound class by a third in the 100 race, while Constable Woodburn, of the city police, took first in the same event. Chief Fry and Chief Brogan, of Saanich, ran second and third in the chiefs' race, taking the dust from Chief Severyns, of Seattle, in that event.

CHAMBER HEARS VARIOUS MATTERS

That an extra Canadian immigration officer be placed at Seattle to eliminate the delay in the arrival of boats at Victoria was recommended by Wm. M. Allen on behalf of the tourist trade group and endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce directors this afternoon.

Mr. Allen also reported that it was evident that much of the noise of shouting at the wharf on the arrival of steamers was occasioned by competition by Menzies Street being lined with sightseeing busses and other taxi cars. It was suggested that the City Council be asked to make the necessary provisions to permit taxi cars now occupying the east side of Menzies Street to be transferred to the south side of Belleville Street, leaving the east side of Menzies Street for private cars.

Endorses Plan

The directors endorsed a resolution from the City Council containing the proposal that the Department of Marine and Fisheries be required to have put into effect regulations compelling all vessels of 2,000 tons net register and over to secure the assistance of a tug or tugs, as may be necessary in the judgment of the harbor master, before attempting to pass through the draw of the Johnson Street Bridge.

Two Suggestions

Cancellation of the Wednesday half-holiday was proposed by Arthur Lineham at the meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon in a vigorous speech in which he pointed out the loss to the city by the closing of the stores.

Mr. Lineham also asked the support of the chamber to a resolution calling upon the C.P.R. agents to post tourists on the beauties of Victoria and help in turning the transient tide to this city.

HINDU READY AS OWN EXECUTIONER

Was Under Delusion About Past History

"I killed a man fourteen years ago at Vancouver." This, said Constable Robert Owens to Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court to-day was the answer he received when he asked Jowalla Singh, a Hindu, at Sidney why he loitered on the street corner. Deeming the man of unsound mind, the officer thereupon arrested him and brought the Hindu to the city police station for safe keeping. Then it turned up that a coat worn by Jowalla was recognized by Brahm Singh as his own.

Charged to-day with the theft of the coat Jowalla pleaded not guilty and explained it as a temporary expediency in which he took the coat of his friend to shield himself from the rain. Questioned as to his extraordinary statements as to having murdered a man at Vancouver, the accused said to-day his remark had been a joke. The joke had been repeated, testified Constable Owens when the accused asked witness to find Brahm Singh to go bail for him. "Tell him it is the man who killed a man at Vancouver some time ago," had been his instructions to the officer, said witness.

In searching the accused the officer had found a neatly coiled lariat with a slip knot and noose. This said the accused to-day with engaging frankness was always with him. It was a last resort whereby he would take his own life if work proved as elusive in the future as it had proved in the past. Detention, ruled the court would provide the accused with work and freedom from his immediate worries. A sentence of three months was imposed.

YOUNG PEOPLE AT ENJOYABLE PICNIC

Forum of Metropolitan Church Entertained By Dr. and Mrs. Clemence

A delightful time was spent by the members of the Young People's Forum of the Metropolitan Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon and evening last at the Summer home of Dr. and Mrs. S. G. Clemence, Cordova Bay, upon whose kind invitation the picnic was held. The party of about 100 journed to the bay in tally-ho's and on arrival were welcomed at the cottage by their host and hostess.

A vote of thanks to Dr. and Mrs. S. G. Clemence was voiced on behalf of the forum by the secretary, Miss Mary McFadden, the party endorsing the same by singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" and giving a rousing three cheers, to which Dr. Clemence modestly replied. All sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and the happy party left for home about 10.30 in three tally-hoes.

IMPRESSES VALUE OF SERVICE CLUBS

Rev. J. W. Ogden Speaks to Gyros and Encourages Their Spirit of Unselfishness

Reverend J. Williams Ogden, of Vancouver, to-day addressed the Gyro Club of this city at the regular weekly luncheon of the organization. Many members of the local organization were in attendance to hear him.

"You may be thankful," said the speaker, "that you do not belong to that miserable breed of creatures living on this planet, who imagine that a moment unamused is quite unbearable, who can think of nothing to think about, and who must kill time to live at all. He expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the work of the service clubs of Canada, saying that "these special clubs have been something of a phenomenon to me. They are something unique. They exist to do good, and to make a practical contribution to the common wealth."

"You exist to build," said the speaker in continuing. "Power, poise and purpose are included in your slogan, for the good of mankind. It is easy to smash things; any beast can do damage. It is up to you to build up and to make a contribution to the better class of citizens for the future."

"These service clubs," he remarked, "do a great deal of good in advertising Canada and its resources. It is a fine thing to advertise Canada, but it is a better thing to work to produce a race of better Canadians. The wealth of our country is not in its natural resources; but it is rich only as it succeeds from generation to generation in producing a better and happier race of human beings.

During the announcements of the activities of the Gyros the members learned that a golf and tennis match against the Elks' Club has been arranged. The final competition in the former sport will be held to-night, at the Uplands golf course. Friday evening will see the Gyros in action with the Elks at the game of tennis. A baseball team will compete for a $50 prize at the Liberal picnic at Goldstream, Saturday, the money derived thus to be given by the winning team to some charitable organization.

TOWN PLANNING ISSUE DISCUSSED

Chamber of Commerce Is Asked for Opinion

A plea for town planning presented by the Gyro Club of Victoria, was presented for the consideration of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their weekly meeting today.

"The Gyro Club has come to the conclusion that town planning is essential, not only to our city but to the country generally," R. P. G. Christy, civic affairs chairman of the Gyro Club wrote. "The idea briefly is to expand so that developments come under control and may be able to conform to the requirements of maximum use, health and beauty."

The letter continued that E. L. Gaines, engineer and executive secretary for the Young Commission of Seattle would address a meeting in Victoria, and asked the Chamber to share the expenses of a meeting.

Alderman A. E. Todd endorsed the Gyro idea, as one of vast importance to Victoria, having a greater effect on the future and taxation rate of the city. It was agreed to help the Gyro Club in the expenses of the meeting.

POPULAR TEACHER DIES WHILE ON WAY HOME FOR VACATION

A feeling of deep sorrow will be felt by a large circle of friends by the death of Miss Dorothy Winifred Sherwood, of this city, who passed away after a brief illness at the age of 26 years on Friday evening, at the General Hospital, Seattle.

Miss Sherwood was a native daughter and served for six years on the teaching staff of the Girls' Central School. Last year she severed her connection with the Central School and was on the staff of the public school at Revelstoke until the end of the school term, when she returned to the Coast with the intention of spending the vacation with her friends in Victoria.

Miss Sherwood was educated in the local schools and passed through the High School, from which she successfully passed the McGill University Matriculation. She also received her Normal School training in this city. Miss Sherwood was a young lady of excellent character and disposition and was very highly esteemed amongst a large number of acquaintances. She was a member of the Emmanuel Baptist Church and for some time took a leading part in the Young People's Society. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. S. O. Sherwood, of 1269 Pembroke Street; her sisters, Miss Olivia Sherwood, charge nurse of Seattle General Hospital, and Mrs. A. Boyer, an dtwo brothers, George, of this city, and Percy, of Cariboo. Funeral arrangements are with the Thomson Funeral Home.

OBITUARY RECORD

There passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning George Henry Burgess, aged three months, only child of Mr. and Mrs. George Burgess, of 1051 Deal Street, Oak Bay. The remains are reposing at the Thomson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, pending funeral arrangements, which will be announced later.

The funeral of the late Samuel Emerson, who died at 2650 Prior Street on July 19, will take place to-morrow at 2.30 from the Sands Funeral Chapel. The late Mr. Emerson was born in Sterling, Ontario.

A native son of Victoria passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital, Tacoma, Wash., after a brief illness, in the person of Francis William Jesse. He was sixty-two years of age, and a grandson of the late Capt. Wm. McNeill, one of the pioneer Hudson's Bay Co. captains of the early days. Mr. Jesse left Victoria fifteen years ago to accept a position with the St. Paul Lumber Co., of Tacoma, with which company he was associated up to the time of his death. A widow and an aged mother survive, also two sisters, Mrs. E. M. Fort, of Salisbury, England, and Miss Edith Maude of this city, as well as three brothers, Walter Hamilton, Robert, and Herbert Alexander, all of Victoria. Interment will be made at Puyallup, Wash., where the late Mr. Jesse has been residing.

The Great Canadian Piano

Little folks at the impressionable age quickly learn to respect the unsurpassed excellence of the Gerhard Heintzman Piano, for it is remarked upon by their elders whenever pianos are being discussed. The fact that the Gerhard Heintzman is a Canadian instrument endears an appreciation of things Canadian, and by its exceptional tone-quality teaches an appreciation of true musical values.

GORGE TAKES ANOTHER LIFE

Vernon Larkin was born near Port Angeles. He has resided in this city since his coming here with his mother in 1912. He attended the Boys' Central School, leaving that institution at the age of ten or eleven years to work. He had been employed by several firms in this city, and all speak highly of the lad. He was always a conscientious employee, working hard and honestly, and was deemed very reliable.

He was employed by the Thompson Grocery Company, Vancouver Street, at the time of his death. Previous to that he was with Terry's Drug Company and the New England Meat Mark, in the capacity of messenger and delivery boy.

He was the eldest son of Mrs. Alcea Larkin and leaves a number of relatives in the city.

LOCAL REAL ESTATE MEN GIVEN OFFICE

Two Made B. C. Directors for Northwest Real Estate Association

Fred Landsberg and Major H. Cuthbert Holmes were elected directors for British Columbia of the Northwest Real Estate Association at the convention which has just closed at Portland. A. E. Auston, of Vancouver, was elected vice-president for British Columbia. Other honors for Victoria were won by Alfred Carmichael, president of the Real Estate Board of Victoria, who missed by two points only, winning the cup contest for the best five-minute address on "Your Own Town." The Tacoma representative won the cup with ninety-four points. Seattle came third.

The local party returned to Victoria this morning. It was led by Mr. Carmichael, who was accompanied by his son, Fred Landsberg and daughter, Mrs. White Howles, R. Wolfenden and Mrs. Wolfenden and C. T. Cross, Mr. Cross attending both as a realtor and as president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Among the outstanding features of the convention was an address by the Oregon State Commissioner administering the Real Estate Act. A special commissioner is appointed in the state, it was pointed out, to see that the Act is properly administered, and from his speech and remarks of delegates it appeared that the Act had done much to protect the public against undesirable agents doing business. It was still essential to make the Act stronger before it could function perfectly. Most of the states of America require a bond for a real estate business, the minimum being $1,000, and the opinion of most of the delegates was in favor of the bond being set as high as $2,500.

In the State of Oregon over $25,000 has been returned to the public through the administration of the Act, following misrepresentation by dealers.

Becomes Profession

"Among the features which impressed me," said Mr. Carmichael to The Times, "was that the real estate profession is becoming more of a profession than ever before. It includes all kinds of service to the public outside the actual selling of property, including proper appraisals, intelligent advice on investments in real estate, studying of market conditions to advise opportune times to enter upon a building programme, and when to sell and when to hold property. It was noted that real estate men are taking an important part in civic enterprises that promise to benefit the town and community. Courses are being established in the universities and the text books now published relating to the profession of real estate are other indications of the added dignity of the real estate business, Mr. Carmichael believed.

The multiple listing system was reported to be a success by every board that had given it a trial. The system provides that property listed in any one office for sale becomes listed through a central secretary in every office affiliated with the board, and this had resulted in greater service to the public and increased activity in sales.

POLICE AT SEATTLE.

Back from the Seattle police sports over the week-end, the revolver team from the city force is warm in its praise to-day for the hospitality it met. Though Victoria came last on the list the members of the team were feted with a cordiality that took away the keen edge of defeat. Of two teams entered from Seattle the headquarers five captured the prize with over 170 points out of 200 per man. Captain Haigh scored high for Seattle with a total of 174. Tacoma captured the highest individual total with a neat 179 complied by Patrolman Powell. Seattle precincts nosed Victoria out for third place, and the local team brought up the rear. On the local team Constables Palmer and Allen, with 136 and 135 respectively, lead, with Detective Clerk T. H. Bamford 121, Detective Rogers 120, and Chief Dawley, of Esquimalt, 85.

Walkerville Woman Gets a Big Surprise

"Tanlac gave me health and happiness a year ago, after it looked like I never would be well again, and I haven't stopped praising it since," declared Mrs. Maude Whitehead, 20 Victoria Road, Walkerville, Ont.

"My appetite was so poor I often went all day without food, and was so weak and run-down a few steps over to the store would exhaust me and get me out of breath until I thought I would drop in my tracks. I feared a nervous breakdown, too, for I would tremble all over even if the doorbell rang, and at night little noises like a curtain rustling would keep me wide awake.

"I felt an improvement with my very first dose of Tanlac, and now I am always hungry, eat like a farmhand, am never nervous, sleep all night long and am so strong I could walk the mile and a half to Windsor and hardly notice it. Tanlac is simply grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over thirty-seven million bottles sold.

H. G. WELLS' FAMOUS OUTLINE OF HISTORY

The Romance of Mother Earth

The Catastrophe of 1914

The Last German Effort.

Yet the German imperial government persisted in its course. If the submarine was not doing all that had been expected, and if the armies of America gathered like a thundercloud, yet Russia was definitely down; and in October the same sort of Autumn offensive that had overthrown Serbia in 1915 and Roumania in 1916 was now turned with crushing effect against Italy.

The Italian front collapsed after the battle of Caporetto, and the Austro-German armies poured down into Venetia and came almost within gunfire of Venice. Germany felt justified, therefore, in taking a high line with the Russian peace proposals, and the peace of Brest Litovsk (March 2, 1918), gave the Western Allies some intimation of what a German victory would mean to them. It was a crushing and exorbitant peace, dictated with the utmost arrogance of confident victors.

All through the Winter German troops had been shifting from the Eastern to the Western front, and now, in the Spring of 1918, the jaded enthusiasm of hungry, weary and bleeding Germany was lashed up for the one supreme effort that was really and truly to end the war.

Inefficient Leadership.

For some months American troops had been in France, but the bulk of the American army was still across the Atlantic. It was high time for the final conclusive blow upon the Western front, if such a blow was ever to be delivered.

The first attack was upon the British in the Somme region, and on March 21, in "Gough's Disaster," the fifth British army was driven back.

The jealousies of the British and French generals had prevented any unified command of the Allied armies in France, and there was no general reserve whatever behind Gough. Thousands of guns were lost and scores of thousands of prisoners. Many of these losses were due to the utter incompetence of the higher command. No less than a hundred tanks were abandoned because they ran out of petrol!

The British were driven back almost to Amiens where they stood fast. Throughout April and May the Germans rained offensives on the Allied front. They came near to a break through in the North, and they made a great drive back to the Marne, which they reached again on May 30, 1918.

Foch in Control.

This was the climax of the German effort. Behind it was nothing but an exhausted homeland. The Allied politicians intervened in the quarrels of their professional soldiers, and Marshal Foch was put in supreme command of all the Allied armies. Fresh troops were hurrying from Britain across the channel, and America was now pouring men into France by the hundred thousand.

In June the weary Austrians made a last effort in Italy, and collapsed before an Italian counter-attack. Early in June Foch began to develop a counter-attack in the Marne angle. By July the tide was turning, and the Germans were reeling back.

The battle of Chateau-Thierry (July 18) proved the quality of the new American armies. In August the British opened a great and successful thrust into Belgium, and the bulge of the German lines toward Amiens wilted and collapsed.

Germany had finished. The fighting spirit passed out of her army, and October was a story of defeat and retreat along the entire Western front. Early in November British troops were in Valenciennes and Americans in Sedan.

In Italy also the Austrian armies were in a state of disorderly retreat. But everywhere now the Hohenzollern and Habsburg forces were collapsing. The smash at the end was amazingly swift. Frenchmen and Englishmen could not believe their newspapers as day after day they announced the capture of more hundreds of guns and more thousands of prisoners.

In September a great Allied offensive against Bulgaria had produced a revolution in that country and peace proposals. Turkey had followed with a capitulation at the end of October, and Austria-Hungary on November 4. There was an attempt to bring out the German fleet for a last fight, but the sailors mutinied (November 7).

The Armistice.

The Kaiser and the Crown Prince bolted hastily, and without a scrap of dignity, into Holland. On November 11 an armistice was signed and the war was at an end. . . .

For four years and a quarter the war had lasted, and gradually it had drawn nearly every one in the Western world, at least, into its vortex.

Upwards of ten millions of people had been actually killed through the fighting, another twenty or twenty-five million had died through the hardships and disorders entailed.

Scores of millions were suffering and enfeebled by under-nourishment and misery. A vast proportion of the living were now engaged in war work, in drilling and armament, in making munitions, in hospitals, in working as substitutes for men who had gone into the armies and the like.

Business men had been adapting themselves to the more hectic methods necessary for profit in the world in a state of crisis. The war had become, indeed, an atmosphere, a habit of life, a new social order. Then suddenly it ended.

In London the armistice was proclaimed about midday on November 11. It produced a strange cessation of every ordinary routine. Clerks poured out of their offices and would not return, assistants deserted their shops, omnibus drivers and the drivers of military lorries set out upon journeys of their own, devising with picked-up loads of astounded and cheering passengers going nowhere in particular and careless whither they went.

Vast vacant crowds, presently choked the streets, and every house and shop that possessed such adornments hung out flags. When night came, many of the main streets, which had been kept in darkness for many months because of the air raids, were brightly lit. It was very strange to see thronging multitudes assembled in an artificial light again. Every one felt aimless, with a kind of strained and aching relief.

It was over at last. There would be no more killing in France, no more air raids—and things would get better. People wanted to laugh and weep—and could do neither. Youths of spirit and young soldiers on leave formed thin noisy processions that shoved their way through the general drift, and did their best to make a jollification.

A captured German gun was hauled from the Mall, where a vast array of such trophies had been set out, into Trafalgar Square, and its carriage burnt. Squibs and crackers were thrown about. But there was little concerted rejoicing. Nearly every one had lost too much and suffered too much to rejoice with any fervor.

The Sandman Story For To-night

MR. FOX AND HIS RIVAL

Part II.

Mr. Fox knew perfectly well that Mr. Turtle had lived longer than he had—much longer. But that he had as much useful knowledge as he had he did not believe. Anyway, he was quicked to think about things in general than his rival; that Mr. Fox was certain about.

Mr. Fox was running along as he was turning these things over in his mind, when he happened to see a bed of nice mushrooms; and knowing that Mr. Turtle liked mushrooms, Mr. Fox had an idea.

He turned right about and ran back to the woods, but he did not stop at his own home. Oh, no; he kept right on until he reached the home of Mr. Turtle.

When Mr. Turtle answered his knock at the door Mr. Fox smiled very sweetly and said: "I came over to say that because we are in the same business, that is no reason why we should not be good friends, and with only two really wise ones among the wood folk there is work enough for both of us to do."

Mr. Turtle was glad to know that Mr. Fox felt friendly toward him and just as he was taking his leave Mr. Fox said: "Mr. Turtle, I saw a bed of fine mushrooms over the hill; thought you might like to know, as you are fond of them."

Mr. Turtle thanked him and said he would go right over and look at them.

"Nothing venture, nothing have," quoted Mr. Fox as he ran home. "If he takes a look at those mushrooms he won't get back until to-morrow morning, and I shall have all the wood folk at my lecture to-night anyway."

Mr. Fox sat down to think over all the wise things he was to tell his audience that night, when suddenly he remembered that he was hungry; very hungry indeed. "I'll run over to the farm," he said, "and get my supper. There is plenty of time before it is time for me to give my talk."

All the way as he went Mr. Fox was talking softly to himself, saying over all the wise things he had ever heard. "Never be weary of well doing," he said, and "It costs more to revenge injuries than to bear them," and "Better be alone than in bad company," and "Honesty is the best policy."

Many other wise sayings he ran over in his mind, and so intent was he that he did not see Mr. Turtle waddling along. "I'll wait right here until he comes back," said wise Mr. Turtle.

Mr. Turtle had stayed late in the mushroom bed, and when he started for home he knew he would never be able to reach there in time for his lecture unless some one gave him a lift and when he saw Mr. Fox trotting along he remembered his ancestor who had won that famous race hundreds of years before from Mr. Hare.

Mr. Fox ran over to the farm, got his supper and was running back at a pretty fast rate of speed; so he did not know when Mr. Turtle reached out his head and grasped the tip of his tail and held fast to it.

Mr. Fox was thinking of getting home, and how Mr. Turtle must be waddling along somewhere far from home, for he was very certain he went to the mushroom bed. So he was not as careful as he usually was to look where he was going.

Over a stone wall leaped Mr. Fox, and the next thing he knew he was deep in a pond of—mostly mud.

A mud bath to Mr. Turtle was fun, and if he had not been in a hurry to reach home he would have liked nothing better than to stay there; but he crawled out and left Mr. Fox wallowing about in the mud.

Before Mr. Fox had come along Mr. Turtle had had time to think, and it had entered his wise old head that Mr. Fox had reasons for being so kind in telling him about the bed of mushrooms, so he called to him as he waddled away: "There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip, Mr. Fox. I shall remember to explain that saying to my audience to-night and tell them, too, how you are unavoidably detained."

Mr. Fox knew that his rival would reach his home in time to give his lecture, and he knew, too, that he would be the laughing stock of all the wood folk by morning; so, when he did at last get out of the mud he ran for home and pulled down his sign, and then out of the woods he went, to make a home so far away that Mr. Turtle would have to crawl years and years before he found him.

Victoria Now In Triple Tie In Cricket Race

Draws Level With Incogs and Albions As Result of Spectacular Win Saturday

Victoria overtook the leaders of the Victoria and District Cricket League on Saturday afternoon when it succeeded in handing the Incogs their initial defeat of the season. The result now leaves the Incogs, Albions and Victoria tied for first place, although Victoria is the most fortunately situated, not having lost a game to date. The Incogs have been defeated once, and the Albions have lost two games. Each club has won six matches.

Two league games were played on Saturday with the Five C's defeating the Congregationals in the other matches. The Albions engaged in a friendly game with Cowichan and showed that they still have their batting eye. The results were as follows:

Victoria, 176; Incogs, 87.

Five C's 189 for 5 wickets; Congregationals, 108.

Albions, 167; Cowichan, 112.

The Incogs' attack crumpled up before the keen bowling of George Wilkinson and Sholto Gillespie. The former took six wickets for 42, while the latter knocked off the other four for 43. Sparks was the only member of the Incogs who could hit against the bowling and he reached 39 before he was caught by Grant off Gillespie's bowling. The rest of the team hit very feebly. It is very seldom that Incogs fail to reach the century.

Hit Consistently.

Victoria hit all the Incog bowlers fairly freely, seven of the batsmen reaching double figures. McAdam was the best with a well-played 37, Coley coming next with a 22.

The Five C's did not have any great trouble in disposing of the Congos. They declared with five wickets down and their total standing at 189. Canley was responsible for 43 runs, while Eden Quainton ran up 58, not out. The Congos made a useful score, Slocombe leading with 29. Four Five C's bowlers were used to effect, A. Lea having the best average with three for 27.

The Albions and Cowichan had quite a sporting game. Ismay of the locals, compiled a nice score. He put on 69 before Williams caught him off Hayward's bowling. Hudson came through with a 40. Williams was top man for the visitors with 43. Freeman, of Albions, led the bowlers with 4 for 11.

Leonard Will Have Fight on Hands To-night

Meets Lew Tendler, Hard-Hitting Southpaw, for Lightweight Title in New York

New York, July 23.—The fifth world's championship battle of 1923 will be the magnet that is expected to attract a throng of nearly 80,000 here to-night when Benny Leonard ricks his lightweight title in a 15-round match with his hard-hitting Philadelphia rival, Lew Tendler.

Leonard pronounced himself today to be in the best condition of his career and declared he was certain of his ability to win decisively.

Tendler also was in fine form and ready for a slashing struggle. The rugged southpaw had the lightweight crown almost within his grasp a year ago when he had Leonard toppling momentarily in the eighth round of their 12-round bout at Jersey City. He is confident he will reach his long-sought goal to-night.

Evenly Matched Physically.

Physically the contenders are about evenly matched. Tendler is 24, three years younger than Leonard, and has a slight advantage in height and reach. Leonard has ruled the lightweight kingdom for the last six years winning the title from Freddie Welsh, of England, in 1917 by a knockout.

They will weigh in to-day at 2 o'clock. Weight forfeits of $10,000 have been deposited by each pugilist.

Arrangements have been made to handle a crowd of 80,000. With advance sales nearing the $400,000 mark in receipts, a record for a lightweight title match was assured. The previous high mark was set at Boyle's Thirty Acres last July, when Tendler and Leonard attracted a gate of nearly $375,000 and an attendance of about 60,000.

A feature of the match was the hole-in-one by R. J. Darcus at the tricky sixteenth, a distance of 110 yards.

The scores were as follows, with the Cowichan player's name first in each case:

Every Race Saw A Vancouver Victor

Oarsmen From Mainland Won All Seven Championships at Stake at Shawnigan Lake and Returned Home with Carload of Silverware—Even Victoria's Redoubtable Tackweights Fell Before Invaders—Fletcher, Iron Man, Star of Regatta With Three Firsts and One Second

By Times Special Representative

Shawnigan Lake, July 23.—Vancouver has gained the honor of making the first clean sweep in the long history of the North Pacific Association of Amateur Oarsmen. At Shawnigan Lake on Friday and Saturday the scarlet and white oarsmen shut out the Victoria and Portland entries from getting home in the lead in the seven championship events and in two of the races managed to win both first and second places.

It was the twenty-seventh annual regatta of the N.P.A.A.O. and the sensation furnished by Vancouver was not expected in any quarters, not even the most optimistic of the Mainland supporters being prepared to predict seven straight wins. It was expected that the Victoria tackweights would be winners in their race, the second on Saturday's programme, but even here Vancouver was good enough to win by a length in a snappy finish.

The nearest approach to a clean sweep was made by the Portland Rowing Club in 1911. The Rose City oarsmen succeeded in winning all but one race, the Victoria junior four proving the fly in the ointment and winning their event.

Went Home With Everything.

As a result of their showing at Shawnigan the Vancouver oarsmen went home with about fifteen cups and several dozen medals. The signal victory was royally celebrated at the lake on Saturday evening, and further honors await the victors in Vancouver. The Dewar Cup, for the grand aggregate, and the massive Buchanan Cup, for the senior fours, along with the smaller trophies were all shipped to the Mainland yesterday.

Victoria was runner-up to Vancouver, and while not successful in winning a first, picked off four seconds and three thirds. Portland failed to be a factor in the regatta, and won but one second and one third.

The standing of the clubs was as follows: Vancouver, 28 points; Victoria, 11 points; Portland, 3 points.

Failed to Come Back.

Saturday's programme opened with the senior singles. Billie Kennedy, a former champion, essayed a comeback against the present titleholder, George Kingsley, while "Hughie" Fletcher, the Vancouver sculler, who won the junior singles on Friday, entered by right of victory. Abraham, the Portland sculler, did not start, saving himself for the senior fours.

Kennedy was away like a flash from the starting point, and Kingsley had to hit a fast pace to catch him at the quarter-mile. Fletcher was trailing at this stage. At the half-mile Kingsley dug in and began to draw away from Kennedy, and at the mile Fletcher caught up the former champion and passed him. Fletcher, however, was not strong enough to overtake Kingsley, who finished with a snow stroke two lengths in the lead. Fletcher held a similar advantage over Kennedy at the finish.

The Big Surprise.

The race between the Vancouver and Victoria 140-pound crews proved the surprise of the afternoon. The blue and whites were heavy favorites, and the race was conceded them in most quarters. The Mainlanders were a bit fidgety at the start, being a bit alarmed less the well-trained Victorians should get the jump on them. Both boats, however, got away well together and they rowed even most of the way. Vancouver's bowman steered a very erratic course, and got in very close to the east shore. The crew, however, was strong enough to stand the strain, and in an exciting finish got across the line a length in the lead of the locals.

The Victoria tackweights had not been defeated previously in their class, and in the senior fours at Vancouver two years ago came within an ace of winning taht event. They showed the best form of any crew at the lake during the races, but they lacked the stamina, with which the Vancouver oarsmen were abundantly blessed.

A Spectacular Race.

The senior doubles provided a very spectacular race over practically the entire mile and a half, and the boats kept well bunched until abort quarter of a mile from the finish when the two Vancouver shells forged to the front. Vancouver's seniors, Wickson and Kingsley, and Vancouver juniors, Finlayson and Fletcher, occupied the outside position with Newell and McDonald, of Portland, and Cummins and George, of Victoria, in the centre. As usual the Vancouver boats had the best of the start, but Wickson and Kingsley, the two heaviest men that have ever rowed in the doubles, found the water rather rough for their shell, which sat low in the water, and they had to cut over. Victoria and the Vancouver juniors benefited and went off into the lead with Portland trailing. Vancouver quickened its stroke several times in the hope of shaking off Victoria, but Cummings and George held on like leaches. Portland closed a little, and a quarter of a mile from the finish at least three boats had a chance to win. The Vancouver juniors increased their stroke, and drew away from the Victoria pair. Wickson and Kingsley came up fast in a dying effort, but found the Victoria crew game, and they had the prettiest race of the afternoon. Vancouver was fortunate in getting both its crews across the line in the lead, Fletcher and Finlayson winning by two lengths. Kingsley and Wickson finished half a length in front of Cummings and George. Portland drifted across the line in last place.

Revenge for Juniors

The senior fours, the premier event of the regatta, proved a thrilling affair and the Vancouver seniors had their work cut out to hold their honors, being extremely hard pressed by Victoria. Four crews lined up at the starting point. It was expected that five shells would race, but the Victoria tackweights decided to withdraw after their failure in the 140-pound race. Portland had to make a last-minute switch when Louie Mills, their No. 3, failed to turn up. Abraham, who had never rowed in the fours before, took Mills' place. It was a big handicap for the Rosebuds. Portland occupied one of the outside positions, with the Vancouver seniors holding the other. Victoria and the Vancouver juniors were in the middle.

The Vancouver seniors had the best of the start, getting off smartly. Victoria gave chase and did all the challenging. The Vancouver juniors dropped into third place and Portland was fourth, but at times not more than a couple of lengths separated the four shells. Not until within close touch of the finishing line did the Vancouver seniors feel certain of victory. They could not shake off the vigorous Victoria crew, stroked by "Sheik" Money. Several times MacKay, stroke of the Vancouver seniors, quickened his stroke with the hope that he would pull away, but the Victoria boat was good for an extra spurt and hung on. Victoria closed fast and Vancouver just got across with less than a length to the good. The Vancouver juniors finished two lengths back, being unable to respond in the closing sprint. Portland trailed the field.

The Victoria crew considered they had gained a moral victory. They did not expect to be able to beat the Vancouver seniors, but they were quite confident that they had a better crew than the Vancouver juniors. On Friday afternoon the Mainlanders had won the junior race by little more than a length. The locals complained of a bad start, so on Saturday went out for revenge. They obtained it in a convincing manner.

A Real Iron Man

The outstanding oarsman of the regatta was "Hughie" Fletcher, the iron man. On Friday he won the junior singles and with Finlayson won the junior doubles. On Saturday he was second in the senior singles and with Finlayson captured the senior doubles. He won eleven points for his club, a little less than half. Fletcher showed what real training will accomplish. He has been working out since early in the Spring and is the best all-round sculler the Mainlanders have.

Vancouver's success may be attributed in some degree to better condition and better success at the starting line, but the real key to its victory lies in the fact that it has better boats. The newest shell that Victoria possesses is fifteen years old, while the Vancouver Rowing Club is getting new boats all the time. The senior four's boat came out from England last year and they have another on the way now. Both the shells rowed by Kingsley and Fletcher just arrived this Summer. Several of the monied folks in Vancouver are behind the club and buying equipment whenever it is needed. The J.B.A.A. is looking for a fairy godmother and would be glad of new equipment.

The results on Saturday were as follows:

Senior Singles.

1—Vancouver, Geo. Kingsley; 2, Vancouver, H. Fletcher; 3, Victoria, Billie Kennedy. Time, 10.50.

Senior Doubles.

1—Vancouver, Fletcher and Finlayson; 2, Vancouver, Kingsley and Wickson; 3, Victoria, Eric Georgs and Bob Cummings. Time, 10.23.

140-Pound Fours.

1—Vancouver, G. B. Corbett, S. E. Angus, W. H. Draper and A. Fellows; 2, Victoria, A. D. MacLachlan, J. D. Hartley, J. Riddell and H. C. Watson. Time, 10.29 1-5.

Senior Fours.

1—Vancouver seniors, G. F. MacKay, A. C. Black, A. Meriacher and W. Wood; 2, Victoria juniors, C. E. Money, V. Bond, K. Adams and V. Bendrodt; 3, Vancouver juniors, H. G. Green, A. F. Nixon, J. C. Oliver, and W. H. Insley.

The members and officials of the J. B. A. A., under whose auspices the regatta was held, are deserving of much credit for the manner in which the affair was staged. There were no complaints and the races were run off in a manner satisfactory to all clubs. The officials of the regatta were as follows: Commodore R. F. Taylor, Vice-commodore B. C. Nicholas; Umpire, M. A. Wylde; Starter, D. O'Sullivan; Judges, H. E. Judge, of Portland; George W. Seymour, of Vancouver, and A. H. Cox, of Victoria. Announcer, O. C. Walls; Time-keeper, W. H. Wilkerson.

On Saturday evening a dance was held at the Shawnigan Lake Athletic Association and was attended by a huge crowd. The prizes won during the regatta were presented to the victors.

Nanaimo One Step Nearer Connaught Cup

Disposed of Coleman Eleven and Are Now Heading for Winnipeg

Calgary, Alta., July 23.—Nanaimo, British Columbia football champions, are now proceeding to Winnipeg, where they will oppose the Fort Rouge Rangers in the western finals of the Connaught cup series, while members of the Coleman eleven, Alberta champions, have gone back to Southern Alberta.

All this happened as a result of Nanaimo defeating Coleman 3 to 1 in the second game of their series at Victoria Park Saturday night. They made it two straight in the series by a margin of 5 goals to 2, as they were returned winners on Friday night by a 2-1 score.

Best Team Won

That the better eleven triumphed goes without saying. Nanaimo played the superior football and they are worthy representatives of the two far western provinces in their quest for the coveted Connaught Cup.

Any chance Coleman had of taking the Eastern journey wilted when Referee Jimmy Haig ruled that Peddington had handled the ball in the penalty area. Stobbart took the kick, and when the ball hit the bottom part of the crossbar and glanced off into the net Nanaimo had a lead of 1 to 0 in the game and 3 to 1 in the series. This goal played havoc with the Alberta coal miners, as they went all to pieces. A foul was called against Coleman. Appelby was given the task of taking the free kick, and the ball evaded Wilson and went into the net, to give Nanaimo the lead 2 to 0.

Nanaimo's third goal of the game was due to a long high drive off Tommy Dickinson's boot. Wilson made a very poor attempt in saving. Nanaimo had two more shots, the last taking Wilson back about a foot in the net, but no goal was given.

The only goal of the second half went to Coleman when Yates cleared his own rebound and drove the ball back into the net.

Nanaimo—Routledge; Linn and Bell; McMillan, McDougal and Stobbart; Minto, Dickenson, Fowler, Appleby and Husband.

Coleman—Wilson; Mitchell and Fish; Jackson, Frame and Dunlop; Yates, Beddington, Redfern, Sharp and Muir.

Draw First Blood

Montreal, July 23.—First blood in the Eastern elimination series for the Connaught Cup, emblematic of the soccer championship of Canada, was drawn by Montreal C.P.R., champions of Quebec, when they defeated the Ontario champions, Ulster, Saturday afternoon by the score of 2 to 1. The game lacked spectacular features.

HAY AND SMITH WIN RACES IN SEATTLE

Local Sprinters Have Their Own Way in Dashes; Fast Times Are Made

Seattle, Wash., July 23.—The feature of the police sports here on Saturday was the running of Cecil Hay, of Victoria, in the two open dashes. He won the 100 and 220-yard races in fast time and defeated the fastest sprinters in Seattle, J. S. Smith, of the Victoria police, showed well, winning two firsts and a second.

Seattle won the bulk of the honors, totalling 28 points, Vancouver was second with 40 points, while Victoria was third with 35 points.

The results in which Victorians figured were as follows:

220-yard dash, police—1, Ross Watson, Seattle; 2, J. S. Smith, Victoria. Time, 24.2 seconds.

880-yard dash, police—1, J. S. Smith, Victoria; 2, H. A. Vinco, Vancouver; 3, J. F. Harrington, Seattle. Time, 57 seconds.

880-yard dash, police—1, J. S. Smith, Victoria; 2, Ward, Vancouver; 3, Sandell, Seattle Time, 2 minutes 19 seconds.

Tug-of-war, preliminaries—Tacoma beat Victoria in one minute, nine seconds; Seattle beat Vancouver in one minute six seconds. Final score—Seattle beat Tacoma twice; time, 35 seconds and one minute, 23 seconds.

100 yards detectives—Yoris, Seattle; McLennan, Victoria; Fortner, Seattle. Time, 13.2.

100 yards, 220 pounds and over—F. Woodburn, Victoria; Tuskin, McPhail. Time, 12.1.

100 yards, open—Hay, Victoria; Petrie, U. of W.; Davis, W.S.C. Time 10.01.

220 yards open—Hay, Victoria, Petrie, U. of W.; Scatterberg, Seattle. Time, 23 flat.

ENGLISH TENNIS STARS REACH U. S.

Liverpool, July 23.—Four English women tennis players sailed for New York yesterday aboard the steamer France to play a series of matches in Canada and the United States. They are Miss Ethlen McKane, England's ranking women's player; Mrs. G. R. Beamish, Mrs. R. C. Clayton, the present covered court champion, and Mrs. Covell.

St. Catharine, Ont., July 23.—Hilton Belyea was out on the Canadian Henley course on Saturday evening after his return from competing in the diamond sculls in England. He stated that he is feeling fine and expected to be in top form to defend his title here next Saturday.

CANADIAN MARKSMAN IS THIRD IN BISLEY AGGREGATE; WINS CROSS

London, July 23.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Sergeant-Major W. A. Hawkins, Toronto, won the third prize, the National Rifle Association's Bronze Cross and £4 in the Grand Aggregate competition at the Bisley meeting which closed Saturday.

The Bisley meeting of 1923 is generally acclaimed as having been the most successful of all the annual meetings held under the auspices of N. R. A. as evidenced by the large number of ties for first place in the matches. So admirable indeed was the shooting that the N. R. A. council is considering the advisability of making the conditions more difficult by reducing the size of the bullseye.

D. Barclay and C. Rieveley Win Two B.C. Titles

Victoria Swimmers Capture Both Championships at Stake at Elks Gala

Fourth annual gala of the Elk's Amateur Swimming Club, held at the Gorge on Saturday afternoon was a pronounced success. The weather conditions were ideal, the races were closely contested, and the presence of the sailors from H. M. S. Curlew added greatly to the spectacle. There was a large crowd of spectators.

The feature of the gala was 100 yards mens' senior B. C. championship, the result of the two heats and the final dash being doubtful until the last few inches. The fact that only one-fifth of a second separated Dave Barclay, of the Elks, the winner, from Tom Wellburn, of the V. A. S. C., second, gives some idea of the fight that was staged. Angus McKinnon, of the Y. M. C. A., touched third, there being almost as small a separation between him and Wellburn as between Tommy and the winner. It was one of the most exciting finishes seen at any swimming meet held in Victoria for many years.

The diving also created much keen competition. The spectators were treated to an exceptionally fine exhibition of 10-feet diving. The V. I. A. A. carried away all the honors, three members of that club taking the first three places.

C. Rieveley was awarded the gold medal position, closely followed by Geo. McRae and Irving Blythe, Dave Baclay, of the Elks, make a very good showing, and was placed fourth. Several novely races were staged during the programme, which created considerable amusement. The baloon race, in which the contestants swam twenty-five yards, got out of the water-inflated baloons and dove into the water and swam back to the finishing line with the baloons held between the teeth. The disasters that overtook the balloons caused great amusement. The duck chase was also an amusing feature when two semi-wild ducks were turned loose in the middle of the Gorge and twenty or more hardy swimmers set out in their tracks. After a long and spirited chase the ducks had to acknowledge defeat and were brought to 1 and by T. Wellburn, of the V. A. S. C., and C. A. Hills, of Vancouver.

Sailors' Race Good.

The sailors' gig and cutter races were also exceptionally close. The men from the H. M. S. Curlew were successful in capturing all the events, but were forced to the limit to keep ahead of the boats manned by the crews from the Patrician and Esquimalt Naval Barracks.

In the evening the Elks staged another successful dance, and wound up what was without question the most successful gala yet held by the Elks.

The results of the galal follow:

Visiting Nine At Last Nicks Ball Leaders

Weakened C. P. R. Team Went Down Before Seattle Wanderers on Saturday

The C. P. R. ball team were hosts to the Seattle Wanderers at the Stadium on Saturday afternoon, and the result was that the visitors presented the local boys with a 7-5 trimming. The Sound city lads have the honor of being the first visiting nine to hand the railroaders a drubbing. The C. P. R. were without the services of four of their regular line-up, Haley Jackson, Roy Copas, Art Minnis and Harry Copas being among the absentees.

It is indeed unfortunate that the C. P. R. management should arrange a game, and then find out that it could not field its strongest line-up. If the four regulars had been on the diamond on Saturday the score might have been vastly different.

Take Early Lead.

The visitors started hitting the pace immediately at the start of the battle, and by the end of the fifth inning it looked like a walk away for them, the score being 6-0 in their favor. However, in their half of the sixth the locals chased across a lone tally, which seemed to give them heart as they proceeded to ring the bell twice in the seventh and grabbed another brace in the eighth.

Things were just beginning to warm up nicely when the Sound city boys chased their chucker to the showers. Graynor, who took up the hurling job, held the home club. The new hurler was quite interesting to the fans, as he had only the use of one wing, the left one, which he used to perfection. When he went to bat he was able to swing the club just as good as the next fellow.

Saunders was on the raised mound for the locals, and he dished up a fairly good brand of ball, allowing eight bingles, two of which were circuit clouts.

For the visitors Hornig led the heavy sluggers with one homer and two doubles. Hillingrin also poled out a homer.

"Poke" Gravlin led the local wrecking crew with two safe bingles out of five trips to the plate. He had a bad off night in the field, having four bobbles chalked up against him.

The score follows:

MERCHANTS! REMEMBER THIS—

The function of advertising is to sell, but it is not limited to selling new customers; it includes keeping old customers sold. Naturally you are vitally concerned in increasing the number of your patrons. You want to see your volume of business go up as quickly as possible. But in the meantime you don't want to lose any of your old customers. And the best means of holding as well as increasing business next to the efficiency of your service) is —ADVERTISING.

LATEST MARKET NEWS

MARKET MAINTAINS STEADY TONE

(By Burdick Bros., Ltd.)

New York, July 23.—The general list maintained a steady tone to-day, with strength pronounced in some groups. There was no particular news of importance disclosed over the week-end, but of course considerable attention was again centred on the tenor of the foreign advices. Among issues that displayed particular strength was American Locomotives, the buying in this issue being chiefly stimulated by the expectation that the precent dividend rate on taht stock would be increased at the next meeting, scheduled for August. This had a sympathetic effect on Baldwin and other equipments. Rails were in fair demand. It is expected that the June earning statements soon to be published will make very favorable reading matter. Some of the independent oils were again inclined to be reactionary, reflecting further oil price and gasoline price reductions. The belief seems to be growing that the stock market is beginning to discount the revival of the trade which is expected to materialize in the Fall. This, coupled with the anticipation of favorable developments in the foreign situation, should make for a better stock market, although of course periods of natural reaction must be expected to take place.

TO-DAY'S TRADING ON WINNIPEG MARKETS

Winnipeg, July 23.—There was very little feature in to-day's wheat market, the session being extremely dull throughout, and while there was little evidence of short selling or pressure, the demand was light with little buying support, indicating a light export business worked over the week-end. After opening unchanged, the futures displayed a little strength, but toward the close eased off again, final prices showing a decline of half cent each for the July and October delivery, and ⅝ for December. Inspections totalled 146, of which 81 were wheat of contract grade.

NEWLY PAVED ROAD AT SIDNEY OPEN

Arch at Gateway to Vancouver Island Is Also Erected

Special to The Times

Sidney, July 23.—The newly paved road from Breed's Cross Road to the top of Oakland Avenue was opened on Saturday evening. It is expected Beacon Avenue will be opened about August 10. The dinner which is to be given by the Board of Trade to celebrate the opening of the paved road will be held August 17.

The arch by the ferry wharf which is the gateway to Vancouver Island, has been erected. A "bee" was held at which twenty public-spirited citizens turned out and put in good hard work. It is a great improvement. The Forestry Department is helping the Board of Trade with the arch and is also giving two large painted panels with educational pictures of British Columbia to be put on either side of the archway.

THE PROOF

The Rev. Amoz Johnson, of the negro Baptist church, had preached a powerful sermon, stating positively that there would be no white people in Heaven.

The Rev. Jesse Wise, minister of the white church, heard of it through his gardener, and meeting the negro preacher, he asked: "Brother Johnson, you don't really believe that, do you?"

"I does, sah!"

"But I should like to have your proof. Where did you get your authority for such a statement?"

"Bruthuh Wise, I gets mah proof fom de Bible, fo' in de twenty-fifth chapter ob St. Matthew an' de thirty-third verse it says de Lord will set de sheep on his right hand, an' de goats he sends away to eveh-lastin' punishment."

"Yes, but the sheep," said the minister of the white flock, "how do you make out that the colored people are the only sheep?"

"Well, sah, I ax you, who's got de wool?"

MANY ATTEND CIVIC PICNIC SATURDAY

Over 400 Hear Aldermen and Ex-Mayor Speak in Evening

The annual picnic of the Civic Employees' Protective Association, held Saturday at Beaver Lake, was an outstanding success from the point of view of those four hundred persons who participated in the carrying out of a long programme of sports, on the land and in the water, and generally enjoyed themselves on the beautiful grounds selected for the outing. Leaving early in the morning, the greater part of those who attended arrived at the picnic grounds in good time, and participated in the aquatic gala, which was held in the old filter bed, where the water was deep and warm.

After the evening meal was over, and when all had settled down after a strenuous day of physical exertion, several speakers were called upon to address the gathering. Alderman E. S. Woodward stated in his speech, that if the inside employees of the City Hall were to get solidly behind the Civic Employees' Protective Association, it would be impossible for the Council to call in someone from outside the present staff to take the place of comptroller. The speaker urged that every civic employee should join the association, so that there would be no danger of their becoming alarmed and worried over the election of a new city council. At the present time the majority of the civic employees are not members of the association. Alderman Woodward acted as the representative of Mayor Reginald Hayward, conveying His Worship's best wishes and expressing his regret that he could not be present.

Ex-Mayor William Marchant spoke briefly.

STUDYING NATURE IN THIS PROVINCE

Professor A. H. Phillips, of Princeton, Is Well-Known Scientist

It is not often Victoria is visited by a professor of the University of Princeton, N. J. In Dr. Alexander Hamilton Phillips, Professor of Mineralogy, who was at the Strathcona Hotel yesterday with his wife, not only science was represented, but the doctor has taken his full share in municipal life, having been for several terms a member of the City Council and Mayor of Princeton.

The natural history, particularly the ornithology of British Columbia, as well as his primary love—mineral specimen collecting—was responsible for bringing Dr. Phillips here, he told The Times.

Dr. and Mrs. Phillips have been on an extended tour through the Southwest and came up this way by a journey through California. The professor is greatly interested in the wild life of B. C. in which he is particularly well posted. He holds the position of Game Commissioner for New Jersey, and asked a number of questions with regard to the administration of the game laws here. He pointed out that owing to the well settled, and compact character of his state, it has been possible to have a systematic and satisfactory patrol, which gives full protection to the remaining wild life of New Jersey.

Dr. Phillips asked several questions with regard to the mineral production and development of ores in this province. He did not anticipate much activity in copper, in the present dormant market in Europe, but expressed the hope that the iron ore deposits of Vancouver Island, favorably located to coal and fluxes, would be exploited.

Dr. Phillips has written text books on mineralogy during his long association with Princeton, and is well-known to science as locator of radium in American ores.

The professor and Mrs. Phillips proceeded to Vancouver yesterday afternoon.

LIBERAL PICNIC PLANS PROGRESS

A bucking broncho with an ability to unseat its rider even though its contortions come from a metallic chest will be one of the features attractions for the children at the Liberal Picnic to be staged at Goldstream on Saturday.

Children will have an especially attractive slice of the programme all to themselves. Swings and seats amid the trees that border on a clearing ideal for flat races complete the picture. Another event of rare interest to little ones is a pie-eating contest wherein the material is supplied to the contestants, and it will be home made.

Shoals of prizes await the winners in all events and in childrens' races every entrant will be assured of at least some return for their pains. The trick horse has been loaned by Messrs. Yarrow, Ltd., Esquimalt, and bears a reputation for being an unridable broncho. Nevertheless, a prize awaits the one who will tame it to the saddle.

Tickets for the picnic may be had at Ivel's Drug Store, Rose's Jewelry Store, L. U. Conyer's Real Estate premises, the Straith Clothier Store, and Levy's Cigar Stand.

After the recent display battle at Aldershot between cavalry and artillery, they were recalling at a Service club the story of the subaltern in the "Blues" who at his examination for the rank of captain, replied to the question, "What is the function of cavalry in war"—"To add tone to what would otherwise be a vulgar brawl."

A clergyman who advertised for an organist received this reply:

"Dear sir,—I notice you have a vacancy for an organist and music teacher, either lady or gentleman. Having been both for several years, I beg to apply for the position."

A BURNING SHAME

A man staying in a tiny village volunteered to give a lecture on Burns to the members of the Mutual Improvement Association. He was warming to his subject, and was giving "The Cottar's Saturday Night," when an interruption came from a man standing at the back of the hall.

"What is it, my man?" asked the lecturer, breaking off.

"I was wonderin' when you was goin' to give us a few 'ints."

"Hints?" asked the puzzled lecturer.

"Yes, 'ints. I paid threepence to come in because you were supposed to know all about burns, and there you stand saying poetry like a parrot, while my missus, who's dropped a red-'ot poker on 'er foot, is waitin' to 'ear whether she'd best souse it with oil or shake the flour-dredge over it."

Why The New Overland WON INSTANT FAVOR

Sweeping Canada into a furore of enthusiasm—Overland Model 91 has justified our every claim and surpassed our strongest predictions. The insistent demand is taxing factory capacity to the uttermost. The explanation of this instant success is found, not in any one advantage, but in a combination of important features that are exclusively Overland.

Do you seek beauty? The Overland looks like a car many times its price. Its hood is high, its lines long. Its radiator is imposing. Drum head lights set off to advantage the full crown fenders.

Do you demand dependability? Consider the ruggedness of this car's construction. As one instance of this sturdiness note the "rear-end"—the strongest ever put into a light car, the axle shaft 27% heavier than in any other car of Overland's price and weight class.

Do you require power? Overland has it, in abundance. Its motor responds like a trigger, never fails you.

Do you look for comfort? Overland's Triplex Springs eliminate jolt and sidesway—deeply cushioned seats and roomy interior add to the riding ease.

Of course you want economy. Overland is the thrift car—with great mileage, few repairs, long life.

She married for a home

You see, her first husband left her without a penny—and with three little children to bring up. You can hardly blame her—can you?

Tragic? Yes! "Of course," you'll say, "that won't be said of my wife if I should die suddenly."

But stop a moment! How would your wife and kiddies fare if your call should come to-morrow? What provision have you made for such a contingency?

If you haven't provided as much protection as you know they should have, you need an Imperial Home Protection Policy. No other provision you can make is quite so definite—quite so convenient—quite so sure.

Let us send you our pamphlet and full particulars. You will find them interesting. To-morrow you may be uninsurable.
